5 Ministers Of Burmese Regime Assassinated

LONDON (CP)—The government's Burma Office announced that five ministers of the Burmese government were killed today in an attack on a meeting of the executive council in Rangoon.

"A murderous attack was made this morning on members of the Burma government at a meeting of the executive council," a spokesman of the office said.

"Five Burmese ministers are reported to have been killed. Details are awaited, and further information will be made available as soon as possible."

The Governor of Burma, Sir Hubert Rance, cabled the initial information on the attack, the Burma office said.

Burma includes some 261,610 square miles of territory lying across the Bay of Bengal from India.

It has been a British dependency, but was granted virtual independence last January after London conferences with a six-man delegation of Burmese nationalist leaders. The population in 1931 was 14,667,146.

U Aung San, president of the Anti-Fascist Peoples Freedom League, has been the leader of Burmese nationalists.

He is deputy chairman of the Governor's executive council and sponsor of a resolution adopted by the Constituent Assembly in Rangoon June 17 stating that

Refugee Ship's Captain Jailed; 3 Dead, 30 Hurt

HAIFA, Palestine (AP)—The American captain of the refugee ship Exodus 1947 was reported today to be in jail as a result of a shipboard battle between more than 4,500 illegal Jewish immigrants and 50 British marines which left three dead and more than 30 injured.

One of the dead was identified by a British officer as First Mate Walter Bernstein of Los Angeles. The officer said Bernstein died in a Haifa hospital of head wounds. The other victims were Jewish immigrants.

The uninjured immigrants already have reached Cyprus detention camps, joining some 15,000 others who lacked certificates.

Latest reports said 28 refugees, including 17 women and a child, and three British marines were injured in the shipboard fight. The ship, formerly the L.S.14-ton U.S. excursion vessel, President Warfield, was intercepted off the southwest coast of Palestine Friday by five British warships.

ROME (AP)—Unsigned leaflets delivered to the heads of Italian Jewish organizations today declared that the "defenders of Arabic Palestine" were responsible for the time-bomb sinking of the Panamanian ship Visso July 20 at Genoa.

Genoa police reported at the time that their investigation indicated the ship was loaded with explosives to be delivered to Palestine. No lives were lost.

OTTAWA (CP)—A surplus of $290,536,106 in governmental financial operations for the first quarter of the current fiscal year was reported today by B. G. McIntyre, comptroller of the treasury. In his April-through-June accounting.

SEWARD, Alaska (CP)—Still raging unchecked, the gigantic Kenai Peninsula forest fire had moved today within 25 miles of Seward, and forestry men were reported concerned it might leap a four-mile stretch of the Upper Kenai River and sweep through heavy timber toward this port.

11,500 Arrested In Greece Face Prison Or Deportation

ATHENS (AP)—The Ministry of Public Order reported today that 11,500 persons from all over Greece were under arrest and were to be detained or deported—all charged with political offences.

The ministry said that some 7,000 persons had been arrested since the government started raids to counteract the purported Communist-inspired uprising scheduled for July 10.

The ministry said about 7,000 had been deported and most had been sent to the island of Nikaria, west of Samos Island in the Aegean Sea.

Approximately 2,000 soldiers regarded as "unreliable" have been billeted on the island of Maronisi.

PROBE ON THE SPOT
LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United Nations Balkan subsidiary commission moved into northern Greece today for an on-the-spot investigation of Greek charges that an "international brigade" had invaded from Albania.

The move was reported to U.N. headquarters Friday as the Security Council recessed hearings on the Balkan problem until next Tuesday, when the United States will attempt to force a showdown with Russia on establishing a watch over Greece's northern borders.

The subsidiary commission's decision to move into northern Greece came after its investigating team had reported that detachments of an "international brigade" coming from Albania had invaded Greek territory.

MESSAGE FROM ATHENS
The field team flew to the border area from Salonika after receiving a message from the Greek government of a new border incident July 13. The Greek liaison officer with the subsidiary group said his government had received information that detachments of an "international brigade" had invaded from Albania in the region of Konitsa.

The field team was composed of representatives of Australia, the United States, Russia, Brazil and Syria.

Information thus far received here did not make it clear whether the team was able to make an "eyewitness" investigation of the area where the fighting was reported.

General debate on the Balkan problem in the Security Council was closed Friday, thus clearing the way for a showdown—possibly late next week—on a U.S. proposal to establish an international watch on Greece's northern borders.

Later Friday, a United Nations Balkan sub-commission reported to U.N. headquarters at Lake Success that an investigating team had "heard little first-hand evidence" of an international brigade with the guerrillas.

NO INTERNATIONALS
ATHENS (AP)—A Greek spokesman says no elements of an international brigade are fighting on the side of guerrillas engaged against government forces in northwestern Greece.

Canadian Destroyer Aids Woman Stricken On Liner De Grasse

HALIFAX (CP)—A garbled message received by the navy here today indicated that the Canadian destroyer Nootka, on a mercy mission to the French liner De Grasse was headed back for port after medical instructions were sent by wireless from the warship to the liner.

Poor communications prevented the message from being received accurately, but it was believed that two surgeons aboard the Nootka had given medical instructions to the captain of the De Grasse how to treat the woman passenger suffering from internal hemorrhages. The navy said it was indicated the woman's condition had improved. She was not identified.

To Build Trout Hatchery

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—One of the most modern trout hatcheries in North America will be constructed at Dorion, 40 miles east of Port Arthur, officials of the Ontario Department of Mines and Forests have announced here.

$492,000 New Building Campaign Announced By Y.M.C.A. Directors

The Victoria Y.M.C.A. will conduct a new building campaign for $492,000 in February and March, 1948, E. G. Rowbottom, president of the board of directors, announced today.

Immediate aim of the directors in announcing the campaign is to provide a new home for the Y.M.C.A. to replace the present inadequate quarters at Blanshard and View Streets, used for more than three decades, Mr. Rowbottom said.

Plans for the new building originated with a survey of the present quarters by John W. Ogg, senior secretary of the New York Building Bureau of the National Council of Y.M.C.A.s. Mr. Ogg strongly advised against any attempt to modernize the present building, built in 1910 for a city of 30,000. He recommended a completely new modern plant.

Permission to proceed with the campaign has been granted by the Community Chest.

Mr. Rowbottom pointed out that the Y.M.C.A. has made no appeal for capital funds for 37 years.

With fire conditions in Vancouver Island and southern mainland forests hazardous, forestry department officials today issued a warning to all week-end vacationists to exercise extreme caution when taking to the woods.

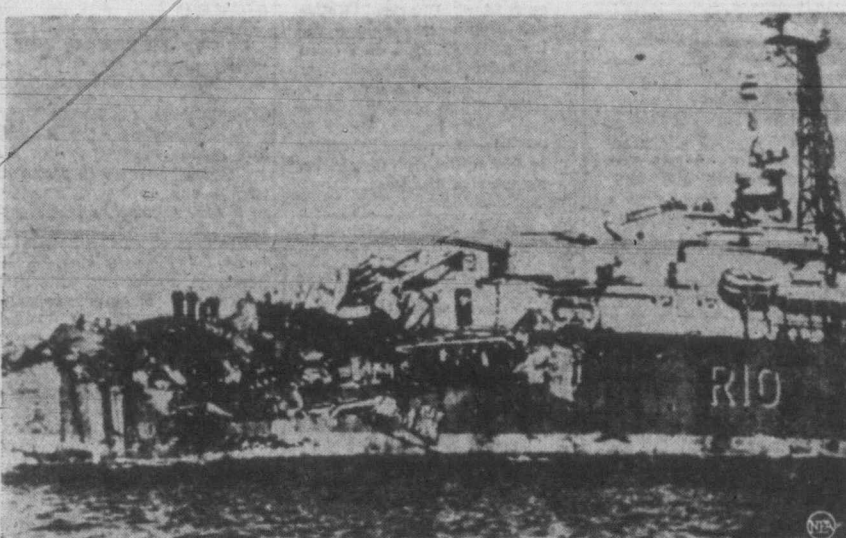

The weekly fire situation report showed 115 fires occurred throughout the province during the week, a reflection of the lightning storms which started up many fires.

Most hazardous conditions are in the Kamloops and Nelson districts, but hazardous conditions also exist on the island and in the southern portion of the mainland. Further north the hazard is less.

Total number of fires in the province to date this year is 591, costing $23,098, compared to 521, costing $26,966 for the similar period in 1946.

Fires burning last week numbered 25. Of the 415 fires which occurred this week, 99 were extinguished, and 41 are still burning.

Damage Suffered By Micmac Surveyed

This is how the bow of the Canadian destroyer looks as a result of the collision in which she and the freighter Yarmouth County were involved off Halifax Harbor, when 11 crew members of the warship lost their lives. It has not been officially stated it will be possible to repair the destroyer, but hopes have been voiced.

U.S. House Votes Huge Sum To Put Foreign Policy Into Effect

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spurred by alarm over strife in Greece and a widening split between Russia and the western powers, the House of Representatives today approved a $1,603,199,094 appropriations measure carrying $1,353,024,900 to finance United States foreign policy.

House passage came Friday night by voice vote in just an hour's time—perhaps a peacetime record for a measure of its magnitude and international implications—amid cries for halting all aid to countries under Russian domination.

Assurance that such a ban is intended came from chairman John Taber (Rep.-N.Y.), of the House appropriations committee, speaking against the background of testimony—some secret, some public—from high-ranking army and diplomatic chiefs.

He told the House that aid will be denied to countries ideologically and economically associated with the Soviet Union "unless they turn over a new leaf and show they are willing to co-operate with nations which believe in freedom."

Consideration of the omnibus aid measure came in the midst of several developments bearing directly on the administration's foreign policy.

They include a decision by a House judiciary subcommittee to pigeonhole until next year a measure which would authorize immigration of 400,000 European war refugees over a four-year period. Instead, House and Senate committees will study the problem this fall.

Meanwhile, failure of the Senate to override President Truman's veto of the Republican tax-cutting bill tossed the issue into the 1948 political campaign. Both sides expressed willingness to let the voters decide who was right.

Prospects for tax reductions at this session of Congress died Friday night when backers of the bill marshaled only 57 Senate votes against 36 supporters of the President—five short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

Probe Escapade Of B.C.'s 'Mad Flier'

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—William J. Winnick of Vegreville, Alta., Friday gathered up the scraps of his Piper Cub aircraft wrecked here by an unknown joy riding aviator. The material will be crated and shipped back to the factory for rebuilding.

Provincial Police Constable Gordon Youngberg is continuing to investigate the story of William Burn, former R.C.A.F. flying officer who ferried the plane here, that the aircraft had been stolen and after a series of sensational flights over Alaska Highway points had been wrecked.

Justice Carroll To Probe Sinking

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier today announced appointment of Mr. Justice W. F. Carroll of Nova Scotia as commissioner in a formal investigation to be launched into the circumstances of the sinking of the S.S. Novadoc last March while in passage from Deep Rock, N.S., to Staten Island, N.Y.

The Novadoc, owned by Patterson Steamships Ltd. and chartered by the Canadian Gypsum Company Ltd. of Windsor, N.S., was loaded with a full cargo of gypsum when she disappeared with a loss of all hands.

1 Ton Of Salmon, 350 Pounds Beef For All Sooke Day On Wednesday

SOOKE — Under the distinguished patronage of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. C. A. Banks, All-Sooke Day festivities will be held at 12.30 Wednesday at Sooke River flats.

Education Minister G. M. Weir will open the show, according to A. F. Brownsey, chairman of the Sooke Community Association, which sponsors picnic and sports day. Thousands of visitors, young and old, from all over Canada and the United States are expected. Capt. P. W. deP. Taylor is head of the reception committee.

William Shields and Norman Baskerville are prepared to cook about one ton of Sooke salmon for the barbecue. This will comprise about 80 salmon to be placed in wire racks and turned at various intervals over trench fires of alderwood.

About 350 pounds of beef will be used for the "Sooke Style" barbecue of beef in charge of James Forrest. Continuous refreshments will include Sooke clam chowder, tea and coffee.

A store in charge of Fred Thorner will be located on the picnic grounds.

The grounds committee, in charge of Arthur Morris, has erected new seats and tables and the midway, in charge of Charles Jackman, will have tents erected the day before the show.

No detail has been neglected by the sports committee which comprises Eric Bernard, Rupert Soule and Robert Acreman, chairman. To secure just the right logs for the logging sports a perfect log has been towed all the way from the Elder Logging Company at Muir Creek by a craft from the Sooke Harbor Fishing & Packing Co.

From the Sooke wharf it was thence towed by a smaller boat, owned and in charge of Albert Wilson and his son Laurie, up to the mouth of the Sooke River. Then by high tide it was brought to the Sooke River flats. It was then pulled up by a tractor and crew ready to be used by the competing entrants in the logging sports.

Expected to create much interest is the appearance of Jack Collins, well-known deep sea diver, who will give an exhibition of his skill in Sooke River. Log birling is also on the list of water sports.

Babies who are being groomed for the Victoria Daily Times baby show must be registered by 1.45 the day of the show at the baby tent. Mothers and babies may then leave, and enjoy the sports and come back for the judging by Dr. Russell Robertson at 3 in the afternoon.

The tug-of-war starts about 3.30. The reward for the best pull is the Daily Colonist challenge cup and eight individual cups. A team from the Elder Logging Co., winners of the Colonist trophy in 1941, will again enter the competition.

The Sooke "gold rush," in charge of Robert Flitton and Reuben Acreman, offers money prizes in connection with this novelty. Joseph Collins, manager of the tombola, has as first prize a washing machine, and second prize is a cedar chest filled with linen by the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute. Many other prizes are on the tombola list.

Among the hard-working directors are Frank Gray, manager of the Sooke Harbor Fishing & Packing Co., who is in charge of the big dance in the evening; D. J. De Rochie, in charge of cups and prizes, and Walter Conder, secretary of the Sooke Community Association, who is meeting regularly with the various committees.

Strikers Chain Selves To Front Door Of Bank

NEW YORK (AP)—Officials of the Brooklyn Trust Company said today they contemplated no action against three young women who chained themselves to the main entrance of the bank building Friday in the first union strike against a major bank in U.S. history.

The three young women, pickets in the strike by members of the Financial Employees' Guild (C.I.O.), handcuffed themselves to each other and to the two sideposts of the bank's front door.

For 15 minutes, while bank guards worked with hacksaws, the bank's customers squirmed through the human chain. Outside, 100 placard-bearing pickets, representing a local of the guild, an affiliate of the United Office and Professional Workers of America, shouted: "Don't hurt these girls!"

Meanwhile, union spokesmen notified there would not be any picketing at the bank's main or branch offices over the weekend.

The bank has officially refused to recognize the existence of a strike.

A union spokesman said, however, that 400 of the bank's 700 employees had joined the walk-out and that 18 of the company's 24 branches were "not operating effectively."

There have been two incidents of violence since union employees went on strike Thursday and Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallender said he was investigating charge of police brutality.

Guild members seek reinstatement of three discharged employees, job security, raises of $15 or 30 per cent a week, whichever is greater, and other benefits. The union said a majority of the bank's employees "now take home less than $35 a week."

Charlie Fea's Rink Wins At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Archie Gold of Nanaimo won the coveted Chambers Trophy (B.C. champion of champions) here last night as he edged Fred Ellis of Vancouver's Kerrisdale Club, 22 to 18. Seven other events were completed with play in the remaining sections being narrowed to the finals.

Art Miller and his Bellingham, Wash., rink captured the Bowser (open) rink trophy for the fourth time in five years. They defeated Bobby Nisbet of Merritt, B.C., 23 to 15.

Bill Monerchief of Cumberland captured the Jack rink trophy with a 28 to 12 win over Dave McKenzie of Vancouver. Hugh S. Banbury took the Stewart rink silverware with a 21 to 20 win over F. A. Tasker in an all-Vancouver final.

C. Pea of the Victoria West Club captured Nelson trophy honors, defeating J. Henderson of North Vancouver 27 to 23. His rink comprised B. Dalgarno, J. Paterson and J. Little.

New B.C. Drama Chief Takes Over

Horace S. Hurn, former principal of South Park School, this week took over his duties as director of the B.C. government's school and community drama division. Appointed some months ago by Education Minister G. M. Weir, he succeeds W. L. Bullock-Webster, first director of the division.

Power Boat Wrecked As Racers Come Out Of Puget Sound

SEATTLE (AP)—Wrecked in the night on Puget Sound, the 37-foot cruiser Dorothy became a casualty of the 1947 international predicted-log powerboat race from Bremerton, Wash., to Nanaimo, B.C. None of the seven persons aboard was injured.

The accident made it impossible for nine race officials to be on hand for the finish of the 145-nautical-mile event in which 132 power cruisers set out from Bremerton.

The officials were being taken to Nanaimo on the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Naugatuck, which turned aside to aid the stricken cruiser.

The Dorothy rammed a barge off Possession Point just after turning a new leg on her course, her owner, W. T. Coy of White Center, said today when he and his party returned to Seattle aboard the Naugatuck.

The three children and four adults on the Dorothy, were taken off by the American Tug Company tug Irene of Everett, Wash., which was towing the barge.

The cruiser's passengers later were transferred to the Naugatuck, which also put the sinking craft in slings and brought her back to Seattle.

Coy said the night was dark and the weather not too clear, and he was not certain how the accident occurred.

Rescued from the Dorothy were Mr. and Mrs. Coy; their son, Gary, 6; Mrs. W. T. Watts; her son, Charles, 4, and daughter, fled only as a Mr. Peterson.

Etta Marie, 5, and a man identified as a Mr. Peterson.

Failure of the race officials to reach the finish line was not expected to prevent accurate check of the many cruisers as they complete their run. Many Canadian yachtsmen who have been working closely with officials at Bremerton will be at Nanaimo to compare running and predicted times.

Yanks Lose Keller Through Operation

DETROIT (AP)—Manager Bucky Harris of New York Yankees, said today he had been informed by club president Larry MacPhail that outfielder Charles Keller had been operated upon for the removal of a disc from his spine yesterday.

Harris said the outfielder, who led the club in home runs when he was sidelined on June 6, probably would be lost to the club for the remainder of the year.

British Domestic Surplus A Record Chancellor Says

LONDON (Reuter)—Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced in the House of Commons Friday a "buoyancy" of revenue which since the 1947-48 budget was introduced last April had netted the treasury a record revenue surplus of £234,000,000 ($336,000,000).

Initiating a debate on the third reading of the budget, which was passed without division, Dalton attributed this surplus chiefly to full employment. Ninety-eight per cent of the insured population now is at work, he said.

Even with the deduction of £30,000,000 received from the sale of war stores, £20,000,000 from trading services and £144,000,000 from miscellaneous revenue, there was a surplus of £40,000,000.

"This never has happened before," Dalton declared. "We certainly have had a very good start."

On the other side of the balance sheet, he announced that concessions made since the budget was first introduced—including a change in the basis of automobile taxation, cheap tobacco to old-age pensioners and a profits tax concession to co-operatives—had reduced the prospective budget surplus from £270,000,000 to £258,500,000.

This was getting satisfaction "relatively cheaply," Dalton commented.

Too Many Old Houses

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Building Inspector E. J. Mooney, said today that "literally hundreds and perhaps as many as 1,000 houses in Saint John are in such a state of dilapidation and disrepair that they should be demolished."

Bull Fight Gets O.K.

LONDON (AP)—Mr. Justice David Jenkins refused Friday to grant an injunction forbidding the BBC to broadcast a description of a Spanish bullfight. The Performing Animals Defence League sought the injunction, contending that the program—already broadcast once by the BBC and to be repeated today—was an "attempt to familiarize the British public with a foreign form of cruelty."

U.S. House Committee Approves Universal Training For Defence

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House of Representatives armed services subcommittee today approved a universal military training bill for the United States following closely the plan advocated by President Truman's special commission.

Its action is subject to review by the full armed services committee at a meeting next Tuesday. House Republican leaders said it will not be acted on by this session of Congress.

The bill approved by the subcommittee calls for six months of basic training for qualified male youths between their 18th and 20th birthdays, followed by six months of membership in a reserve component. A youth would be allowed to have his induction deferred until he becomes 20 or completes his high school education.

Trainees would receive $30 monthly during their basic training period, regardless of their dependency situation. They would wear uniforms bearing a distinctive insignia and would not be subject to military service except in cases of national emergency.

Empire Forestry Conservation Plans Urged By Conference

LONDON (CP)—The Fifth Empire Forestry Conference today concluded month-long sessions with passage of a resolution asking "critical examination of forest policies" by Commonwealth governments in the light of world shortages of timber products.

Another resolution, moved by D. Roy Cameron, Dominion forester at Ottawa, said emergency fellings in excess of forest yield should be accompanied by plans making adequate provision for restoration of growing stock and maintenance of Commonwealth forest productivity.

A resolution on timber supplies and marketing was moved by W. J. Leclair, secretary-manager of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, Ottawa. It said Commonwealth countries should give priority in allocation of logs to production of sawn timber poles, props and plywood, and every effort should be made to service other industries depending on forest products with smaller-sized materials and utilizable waste.

Other resolutions, approved by more than 60 representatives of the Dominions, India, Burma and the Colonies, asked:

A survey of Commonwealth forest resources to be completed by December, 1947;

Safeguarding of forest resources by detailed working plans, continuity of financial grants to forestry, research programs in tree growth and fire protection and checks on extent of grazing;

Establishment of a standing Commonwealth forest products committee to integrate co-operation in extranational investigations and uniformity in research methods.

The next conference will be held in 1952 and an invitation to hold it in Canada will be considered by the standing committee.

Will Inquire Into Great Lakes Dispute

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell today announced appointment of Leonard W. Brockington of Ottawa as commissioner to inquire into a dispute between the Canadian Seamen's Union and the Canada Steamships Limited of Montreal, and the Sarnia and Colonial Steamship Companies Ltd., Port Colborne, Ont.

Mr. Brockington will investigate charges by the C.S.U. that the companies are not carrying out terms of a collective agreement signed last Sept. 3 between the companies and their employees, members of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The union claims the companies are violating the agreement by hiring unlicensed personnel, refusing to allow union officers to board ships, and in their arbitration procedure.

A Labor Department official said the differences appeared to involve the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union and "may result in a serious dislocation of communications."

The commissioner will report directly to the Labor Minister on his findings.

Travel Prize

LONDON (CP)—The Overseas League has announced an essay contest for British schoolboys aged 16 to 19 on the topic "French Canadians and the Canadian nation: Origins of the problem and its significance today." First prize is a trip to Canada.

VICTORIA DELIVERED PRICES OF GENERAL MOTORS CARS

FROM time to time, as a matter of public information, we have published the Retail Delivered Prices of General Motors Automobiles.

In accordance with this practice and to eliminate any uncertainties or confusion, we are again publishing the present Retail Delivered Prices. These prices include Standard Factory Equipment, Dominion Taxes and spare tire. Provincial and Municipal Taxes where such apply, license fee, and optional equipment are, of course, additional.

We sell these makes and models at the prices shown. You may rest assured, we will distribute them as fairly as possible with proper regard for orders placed with us and dependent upon the availability of models.

Should you be offered, from some other source, a new car, or one with low mileage, we suggest that you pay no more than the prices listed. You will obviously find it to your advantage to wait a little longer, until we are in a position to deliver a car against your own order.

We are sorry to say that delivery to you may be delayed for some time yet. This is due, in particular, to the shortage of many materials. General Motors has done a splendid production job under the circumstances and expects to steadily increase the rate of production. Meanwhile, these conditions, combined with the wide popularity of General Motors cars, and such an unprecedented demand, mean that delay in some instances is quite inescapable. We entreat your patience and understanding while the shortage exists.

We realize that our success depends upon the confidence and goodwill of our many customers. We will strive at all times, through good business practices, to justify, and therefore retain, this most valuable asset.

ROME AND MOSCOW

MUCH IS BEING MADE OF TWO SIGNIFICANT articles from the pen of Count Giuseppe Della Torre that have appeared in the newspaper, Osservatore Romano, in which he surveys the Vatican's concern over the possibility of a third world war. While this erudite editor of what for so long has been regarded as the journalistic mouthpiece of the Holy See may not have submitted his "copy" to the Pope himself, or even to the Papal Secretariat, it would be strange if the arguments to which he gives expression were allowed to appear in a journal of such repute were some authority not obtained.

So far as can be gleaned from yesterday's dispatch from the Eternal City, however, and the very brief extracts from these articles that it included, the outside world would seem to be given the idea that the Holy See's attitude toward Communism has undergone an extraordinary change. Reduced to a relatively few words, Count Torre poses the argument that the time has arrived for the western powers to make a greater effort at understanding Communism. There is nothing new in the famous editor's contention that the differences between Democracy and Communism have now reached a point where the supporters of each ideology refuse to give ground. The conflicts at international conferences provide all the information required on this point. But when he says that "Russia has changed so greatly in the years from Lenin to Stalin that it must be considered as an evolution that cannot be denied," he avoids the undisputable fact that the bitterest attacks on the Communistic philosophy in recent years have come from the Holy See, and from those areas which are subject to guidance and instruction from Rome.

All reasonable-minded persons throughout the globe will agree with Count Torre when he says that war is not inevitable, that it never has been, and that it is "only inevitable in the face of a belief that war must come." Of course war can be avoided. The basic prerequisite for peace is not far to seek. The common folk of the world, the "little people" who pay for and suffer through war, can not be expected to become influential, either by word or action, unless there be that type of leadership which the Church, regardless of its particular faith, ought to be able to give and should give without too much indulgence in antediluvian ritualism—which, in this atomic age, means little or nothing to the average individual who is faced with his or her own immediate problems. What is important, however, in the tenor of Count Torre's articles is the seemingly general advice they give to men of good will to initiate some form of practical rapprochement between conflicting ideologies which now present the irresistible force and the immovable object.

SEVEN MEN OF SPANDAU

WHAT SHOULD BE THE FINAL STEP in the disposition of the cases of the war criminals who were sentenced at Nuremberg to prison sentences ranging from 10 years to life has taken place in a suburb of Berlin. The convicted Nazis have been brought by plane from the ancient German city which the Hitler followers turned into a Party gathering place and have been installed behind the dull red bricks of Spandau prison. Spandau, too, has history of its own. It was the "Fort Knox" of the old German Empire, and there in the Imperial treasure house were stored the reparations so quickly paid by France after her defeat in the war of 1870-71. So change the times.

Rudolf Hess and two other former Hitlerian dignitaries, Grand Admiral Erich Raeder and Walther Funk, the one-time economics minister, will spend the rest of their lives in the Spandau prison building, living in solitary confinement except when they are engaged in work, walks or church services. In similar circumstances, but for a definite term of 20 years, will be Baldur von Schirach the Nazi leader of youth, and Albert Speer, who headed arms production for the Third Reich. Constantin von Neurath, who looked after Bohemia and Moravia for Hitler, will remain 15 years; and Admiral Karl Doenitz will be there for 10.

The former positions of these men were such as to enable them to lead a life of luxury and power. As governors and heads, as cabinet chiefs and high-ranking naval officers, they enjoyed the best that Germany could produce. They surrounded themselves with good food and drink, works of art, elegant uniforms and fine houses. They were rulers. They were bosses.

Their lives are now a grim contrast. Their small cells are isolated from each other. They will be together only for certain short periods each day. They will be permitted to speak only with special authorization. They will wear drab prison clothes. They will be allowed one visitor every two months and may send and receive one letter each month. They will be subjected to petty deprivations of light, food or outdoor exercise if they break regulations; but there will be no unnecessarily harsh treatment, no tortures and no physical punishment. They will not be pampered; they will not be hurt. Their lives will go on and on—dull, bleak, without hope and without relief. They will wish they were dead.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE?

LATEST DISPATCHES REPORTING THE Old World peregrinations of Senora Peron, the colorful spouse of Argentina's equally colorful President, indicate that the "delicate" state of the lady's health will prevent her from visiting the British Isles. Austerity-encompassed Britons will have to add this "disappointment" to other frustrated hopes. They will probably survive. The great majority of the people who inhabit the "tight little isle" have just as rooted an objection to dictator's wives as they have to the ordinary run of dictators—whether European or Latin American. And the former Argentinian actress can have little in common with a folk whose philosophy of life mixes ill with the trappings of totalitarianism and despot worship.

Viewed from the essentially political standpoint, of course, Senora Peron's decision is understandable. When she visited Madrid last month, it may be recalled, she did a "balcony act" for the edification of a huge crowd outside the national palace in the Spanish capital—with her arm raised in the Falange salute. She compared what she called the "true distributive democracy" of Spain and Argentina to the "false, deceptive democracies of other countries." The political training she has recently received in Buenos Aires, incidentally, no doubt, suggested to her the inadvisability of mentioning the latter specifically by name. Spain's dictator Generalissimo Francisco Franco probably hinted, too, that she be wary on this score. His role on the world's stage at this juncture has its handicaps. But the fact remains that Senora Peron's decision to leave Britain off her holiday itinerary—whether for health or other reasons—was perhaps a wise one. Britons do not like "balcony artists" of the totalitarian type.

PACIFIC PROPOSAL

THE PROPOSAL OF THE UNITED States for a conference of 11 nations interested in the Pacific for the purpose of formulating a Japanese peace treaty free of veto restrictions obviously seeks to avoid the stalemate which has delayed Four-Power agreement on the German and Austrian settlements. And there is much to be said for the provision of fuller participation by the other nations—Canada, the Philippines, India, Australia, New Zealand, France and The Netherlands—which have a geographical interest in the Pacific area and a concern for the disposition of their former enemy.

Under the plan, the far eastern "Big Four"—Britain, the United States, China and Russia—would each carry a single vote like any of the other conferees, and a straight two-thirds majority would decide all voted questions. Each of the 11 countries would have equal opportunity in drafting the treaty—in marked contrast to the European settlements in which Canada and other "middle powers" were unsuccessful in seeking full representation.

While the larger treaty-making group would broaden the basis of demands and requirements, it would have the advantage that each problem could be decided by a vote, one way or another, and the fruitlessness that marked the Moscow conference would be avoided. Adoption of the proposal likely will hinge on Russia's attitude to the plan, since approval of the other countries may almost certainly be counted on. Whether the Soviet would venture into international debate without the last-ditch defence provided by the veto power remains to be seen. Indications at Washington, it is said, point to the belief that the United States would seek a separate peace with Japan in the event of Russian rejection.

FIRST CATCH

PRIDE IS A SHINING, INNOCENT thing in the young boy who has caught his first fish. It lifts his spirits to dancing heights, brings to him a friendliness all the world that can admire his trophy, and fills him with a well-being few, if any, future triumphs will yield. He has reached a new epoch in life. He may go on to become the compleat angler, an artist with a casting rod and a wizard with a troll. He may find new glories in whipping a sporty stream, or he may achieve that deep and abiding serenity that comes from more prosaic fishing. But those will be sober enjoyments to the elation of his first catch. This is something that sets a song of achievement surging within him.

This is the reward for his unuttered prayer, the rich fulfilment of the promise the waters held as his line sank in them. This is the culmination of those sensations born with the early vibration of a slender rod to the impulse of a spinning lure, that leapt ecstatically to the tug of the hooked fish, and burst in bubbling happiness when his trophy lay gleaming in his boat.

The years ahead will bring refinement to his fishing enjoyment, will blend philosophy with the clean, wholesome pleasure of outdoor sport. But now his joy is bright as a chip of fresh-cut alder. It can never shine quite so immaculately again.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

THE CHOICE

PRESIDENT HARRY TRUMAN and Secretary of State George C. Marshall a few days ago conferred at some length at the White House on the difficult and immensely critical decision which now faces them. They must decide whether or not a special session of the United States Congress is to be called in the autumn. No final decision was made at the White House conference, for the choice which confronts Truman and Marshall is not an easy one. They must carefully balance the growing urgency of decisive American action in Europe against the very serious political dangers inherent in a special session.

If nothing is done about the Marshall program before the regular session starts on Jan. 1, it will be little short of miraculous, on the basis of past performance, if the Congressional mind is made up before March or April, 1948. And it is possible that by then it will merely be a question of slamming the barn door shut after the European horse is stolen. Therefore the State Department technicians are already engaged on as careful a preliminary assessment as is possible so long before the event, of the risks involved in such a delay.

IN THIS ASSESSMENT, the two key points are, of course, Italy and France. If economic chaos forces either country into the arms of the Communists and the Soviet Union, the Russians will have come very close in winning the whole European contest. Of the two, the Italian situation is considered the most immediately critical.

Some optimists believe that the mere hope of eventual support under the Marshall program may alone be enough to steady the Italian economy and halt the flight from the lira. But most of the experts make the informed guess—it is no more than a guess—that Italy must have some sort of help before next Feb. 1 if a full-scale economic and political explosion is to be averted.

THESE MEN POINT TO the fact that there is not much more than $100,000,000 left in the Italian exchange kitty, while the dollar deficit for this year alone will probably be three or four times that amount. They point also to the fact that Palmiro Togliatti's Communist party has already declared open psychological warfare against the Italian non-Communist majority.

The French dollar position is slightly less pressing than that in Italy. Moreover, if the recently announced World Bank loan is successful, France stands to gain another quarter billion dollars of credit in the fall. Thus it is believed that France could probably squeak by until early spring without greatly reducing essential American imports. But here again any assessment must be made at least as much in political as in economic terms.

THE COMMUNISTS who control the General Confederation of Labor have threatened the French government with a general strike of the miserably underpaid French civil servants. Such a strike, if at all prolonged, would of course reduce the government of France to a shambles. The price of averting it, the Communists have made clear, is Communist participation in the government. It is not a price which the Ramadier government is prepared to pay. Thus a great test of strength is probable in the near future.

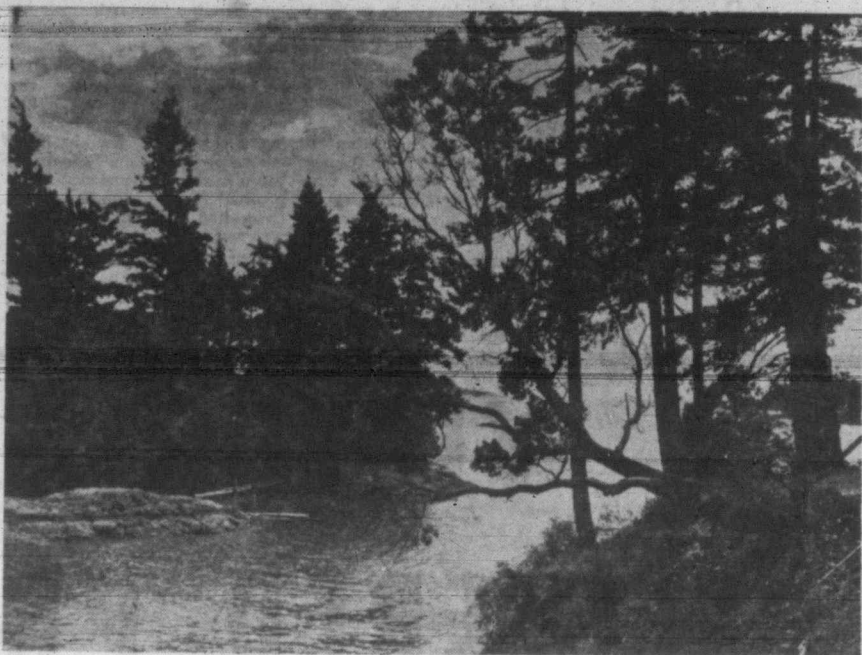

One key is the government workers themselves. The Communist intention is quite clear—to make French participation in the Marshall plan impossible. If the civil servants, underpaid as they are, nevertheless shows signs of unwillingness thus to play the Soviet game, the Communists are expected to back down, rather than risk their hold on the Confederation of Labor. But under any circumstances, the Communists will certainly continue to exert all the immense political and psychological pressure at their disposal.

THUS THE DECISION which confronts Truman and Marshall is a question of the most exquisite timing. For there is no doubt at all that the whole idea of a special session is profoundly unpopular on Capitol Hill. Nor are the full political implications of the Marshall program generally understood. It is not just a question of allocating the necessary funds. For the present Congress, having executive authority, will necessarily be asked to grant great authority to an American agency to control allocations and export priorities on the essential goods. And it will certainly be asked, for example, to permit the chartering to foreign governments of Liberty and Victory ships. This would permit, over a period of time, the saving of as much as a billion in dollar exchange in carrying charges to such governments. But it would also vastly irritate both the powerful shipping interests and the maritime unions.

OBVIOUSLY IT WILL NOT be easy under any circumstances to persuade Congress to do what must be done if the Marshall program is to work. It will be doubly difficult if the Congressmen feel that they have been badgered and bludgeoned by an unfeeling Administration into leaving their political fences at home all unattended.

On Capitol Hill itself, a possible compromise has been advanced. It has been suggested that only the members of the two foreign affairs committees, and possibly of a couple of other key committees, return to Washington for hearings on the Marshall proposal and the European response to it. This might save weeks of precious time. Copyright, 1947, New York Tribune, Inc.

The Better To Know Our Neighbors

STUDENTS in Victoria grade and high schools shortly before and after 1920 were given a vague understanding of early American history as the events of colonization in the New England states paralleled those in Canada.

These admitted deficiencies give specific point to a report of a study of national history textbooks used in the schools of Canada and the United States that has been released in the last quarterly issue of "Canadian Education."

LOOKING FOR FAIRNESS The report, according to a synopsis, gives the findings and recommendations of a study begun two years ago under the auspices of the Canada-United States Committee on Education. It marks the first major attempt to analyze objectively the history textbooks of two countries in order to discover how adequately and how fairly the textbooks of each deal with the affairs of the other nation. The recommendations are designed to improve the content on Canada in United States history books and the content on the United States in the books of this country.

More than usual importance is attached to the study in view of the fact that it was initiated before the establishment of UNESCO and may serve as a model for similar studies of history textbooks of other countries which will undoubtedly be made under the auspices of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

SIMPLER HERE

On this continent, however, the task should be much less difficult than in Europe. Here, at least,

American history, we have been told by friends from the United States that it was better than Americans received in the form of classroom instruction on Canada.

the history and traditions are those of friendly peoples—peoples who regard earlier skirmishes between their forefathers more in the light of unfortunate misunderstanding that should have been avoided rather than as glorious pages in the volume of national integrity. In Europe, on the other hand, century-old grudges assume an importance to national pride that frequently furnishes the tinder which the spark of an "incident" can quickly ignite. Between Canada and the United States, moreover, is shared the tradition of Britain—a country variously overrun by Romans, Angles, Jutes, Saxons and Normans and frequently ravaged by the Norsemen. In the "tight little isle," however, there is no smoldering resentment now against any of these conquerors. They have become part of the warp and woof of the nation itself. Similarly, Canada and the United States hold no historic animosities.

STORIES OF DEVELOPMENT

The histories of the neighbors separated by the 49th Parallel have largely been the stories of development—constructive sagas not without romance and high adventure, but lacking the bitterness that crowds the records of many other nations. It is encouraging to think that the new departure in textbooks suggested by the recently released report will bind even closer those who share the vast territory north of the Rio Grande through a greater understanding of the backgrounds against which contemporary trends and events in the two countries are set.—A.H.S.

'By Their Fruits Ye Shall Know Them'

By JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE

THE BACKBONE of our industrial and business life is the urge to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

The two blades of grass, of course, take many forms, and the urge to produce them springs from many and often composite reasons. It would be almost too much to believe that the hope of profit was the least of them. It would be equally idle to urge that it is the only, or even the dominant, reason. Would anyone believe that Henry Ford, for instance, or Westinghouse of the airbrake, or Hargreave of the spinning jenny, or Fulton of the steam engine, or Mergenthaler of the linotype or the Wright Brothers who pioneered the air, or any one of a thousand others, had their eyes on possible profits, or would have held back and done nothing had the promise of profit been less? Take away all profit and there would still be men driving for achievement, and finding some measure for it.

The widened horizon of business and industry, the improved technical processes that have broadened our lives beyond any measure, the expanding labor market that has provided for vastly expanding populations, and the increased security of our future all pay tribute to these growers of the extra blade of grass.

If in the process some of them have retained a token payment, on the advantages that have accrued to all, it is a tangible witness to daring and achievement that has meant benefit to all and loss to none. We are not saying, of course, that there are not men who have taken too much for themselves and yielded too little. Such matters are under adjustment, and probably always will be. The one point we are interested in making is that the generally accruing benefits are the measure of the right to profit. When all people benefit profits cease to be a public charge.

Unfortunately the legitimate profit taker is sometimes confused with the illegitimate. The one makes a profit out of a sincere and constructive service, a service that recognizes that if profits are to continue, not only those who are engaged in the undertaking or in its financing, but everyone who comes within its orbit must share in the benefits. The other skims off a profit that he has done nothing to create or deserve. These latter do not make jobs, expand wealth or benefit people. They look for quick and large profits, for these may not be repeated. What ingenuity they display is directed primarily to circumventing the law. They prey on the selfishness or the impatience of a segment of the public and they take whatever the traffic will stand. You see them in the black markets making money out of people's necessities or greed. You see them in the bucket-shops convincing people that they can benefit by being slicker than their neighbor. You see them clinging to the fringes of industry trying to capitalize what better men have tried to do for others. We call it all profit, but we don't wholly confuse ourselves. We know when real benefit is given. It is given by the automobile company that sells an honest product at an honest profit. It isn't given by men who through deceit, secure a car to which they are not entitled, and sell it for a fabulous price to someone who doesn't want to wait his turn. When we speak of profits it is well to consider what benefits precede them. That is the way to keep values straight.

Mount Robson—A Challenge To Climbers

MOUNT Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, and a constant challenge to mountaineers, is described in the August issue of Holiday magazine.

Hal Burton, mountaineer and author of the article, says of his first view of the mighty mountain: "Off to my right, there began to rise from the flanking hills an incredibly broad, incredibly massive peak that dwarfed everything around it; a mountain seamed with canyons, dripping with snow, glittering like a bridal cake in the clear air of the Continental Divide."

The rarified air and physically wearing terrain, as well as the many dangers attached to climbing the tricky route, are described in the article. "In 23 years, as a matter of fact, only nine complete ascents of Mount Robson have been made," the story says, adding that not a single party made the top between the summer of 1942 and 1947.

MAJESTY

The author was unable to fulfill his dream of climbing the south face, but stayed at Lake Berg waiting to have a complete view of the mountain. Finally seeing it clear of clouds, blue-white in color, and at night with a red and green aurora borealis crackling behind the summit, Burton says: "I knew then that I'd be back again, for Robson is a challenge to anyone who likes to climb. Tourists may take the mountain home on film, but climbers take it home in their minds. It may take another year, it may take ten, but they'll write their names eventually in the summit register, and then sit down to look at the world from the rooftop of the Canadian Rockies."

Global Survey

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst
EIGHTEEN months ago the League of Nations was laid at rest in its $10,000,000 marble mausoleum on the shore of Lake Geneva, and man's first attempt to maintain peace by means of a world-wide organization was written off as a failure.

But that wasn't the death of hope. The United Nations brand new and full of grand resolutions for the welfare of humanity, already had swung into action. At long last we were to have peace. The Big Five—Russia, Britain, France, China, America—brothers-in-arms who had bled together in the Hitlerian upheaval, sat down in brotherhood, surrounded by the smaller states which looked to the powers for guidance.

Last week ten United States Senators sponsored a resolution which proposed that the United Nations be revamped. Senator Ferguson, who offered the measure, told reporters that he and others were coming gradually to the conclusion that, if Russia failed to co-operate, it might be necessary to reorganize the United Nations without the Soviets.

DISUNITED

The significance of this move is that the United Nations thus far has failed in the main, and it has failed because it hasn't lived up to its name. It is disunited—split after the fashion of unhappy Europe, with Russia and her satellites on the one side and the democracies on the other. The will of the great majority has, in almost every important instance, been nullified by Russia's employment of a veto power which had been accorded in the charter to each of the Big Five.

Gradually it has become evident that this Russian obstruction is a piece off the same cloth as Molotov's tactics in international relations at large. Notable examples have been Moscow's methods of securing domination of eastern Europe, the disruption of the conference to make a German peace treaty, and the refusal to join in a unified program for the rehabilitation of Europe.

Very gradually, too, it has become clear that these tactics have been part of the general strategy of world revolution for the spread of Communism. It has taken a long time for this truth to soak home with a lot of folk who couldn't bring themselves to believe that such a thing could happen. But happen it has, and observers have no doubt that the campaign will continue just so long as Moscow is able to keep the wheels turning.

VETO

Thus we have arrived at the point where important people—and some of them are attached to the United Nations—are wondering if, after all, the U.N. must be scrapped so that a fresh start can be made. That veto power must be controlled so that it can't be used as a bludgeon for obstruction. Unfortunately there is no way of amending the charter, because the present veto power could be used against amendment, and Russia might be expected to employ it.

It's safe to say that most members of the U.N. are appalled at any idea of throwing over the present organization and creating another, which likely would be without the Russian bloc, thus widening the breach which already exists. They still hope that if the western democracies take a firm stand on vital matters, Russia will see the folly of her present course, especially when it becomes clear that the United States is not headed for a tremendous economic collapse, as Moscow has been claiming.

One thing is certain, however. The U.N. can't long continue as a house divided against itself.

Just A Log

In the waters of Gonzales Bay is moored an oddly-shaped log. One end rises in grotesque and reptilian outline two or three feet from the surface. Unusual formation gives it the appearance of a head—a likeness heightened by knotty depressions that look like eyes and a scar which seems to separate upper and lower jaws. The body of the log twists back into the water some 15 feet, rising in humps like those that might be made by a creature crawling or swimming. Waves give it movement. It is just a log that drifted in—not a piece of inflated rubber anchored out by an adroit shop owner as an advertising medium. It is not a sea serpent. And we feel somewhat reassured as the little girl gazes at it, notes the depressions that look like saddles, and remarks that two people could ride on it. As far as we know, no one has called it Gonzalesaurus.

Scottish Memorial Club Seeks Large House For Headquarters

The Canadian Scottish Memorial Club, which the regimental association is forming, is seeking a large old building, even one that has been condemned, which can be renovated at a moderate cost to serve as headquarters.

The hope is to locate a building close to town and Eric Henderson has been named the committee chairman to work on the project. The club will be along the lines of a social centre and a meeting place for all members. It is believed such a plan would go a long way to keep former members of the Scottish together and interested in the future activities of the regiment.

At a meeting and entertainment Friday night at Bay Street Armory, the battlefront padre of the "Fighting First" in World War II, Rev. R. L. Seaborn, Cobourg, Ont., was guest. John M. Rockingham, president, was in the chair.

Since his arrival here earlier in the week Rev. Seaborn has officiated at christening ceremonies of two babies of Scottish veterans and has met many of the officers and O.R. friends of the battlefield. Approximately 50 attended the social.

Prior to the entertainment it was decided to hold a monthly meeting on the second Friday of each month at 8 in the Armory. The next meeting will be in September.

It was reported Capt. H. S. C. Archbold has been appointed editor of the Brazier, the regimental news sheet which it is expected will be published quarterly during the first year. It was first published in 1915, but in later years was not printed because of the paper shortage. The editor will accept pictures and articles of interest.

A special regimental lapel badge, patterned after the old 16th Battalion cap badge, is an aim of the association and a committee was struck to look into the possibilities of this being carried out.

Air Cadets To Get Flight Training

Stephen Chamut, president of the Victoria Flying Club, has announced five air cadets training at Patricia Bay will be given ground and flight training by the club from July 21 to Aug. 16.

The five cadets are D. Routley, L. Crawford and William Taylor of No. 89 R.C.A.C. Squadron, Victoria, and S. Baker and P. Ryan of No. 257, Squadron, Ladysmith.

Training arrangements were completed by E. P. Peerless, secretary-manager, British Columbia committee, Air Cadet League of Canada, and Mr. Chamut. Cadets will be trained on two Tiger Moth aircraft, which have been leased from the Comox Flying Club and the Aero Club of B.C., Vancouver.

Instructions will consist of 12½ hours flying, and 90 hours of ground instruction on navigation, airmanship and meteorology. An additional instructor, Jack Jenkins, has been engaged by the Victoria Flying Club to train the cadets. Mr. Jenkins was formerly associated with Kepler Aviation of Calgary.

New Booklet Gives Guide To Campcraft

The Canadian Forestry Association announces that it has published a 321-page booklet, of pocket size, entitled "A Guide to Campcraft and Woodlore" for free distribution for those traveling or camping in British Columbia.

Written by W. F. Myring, chief warden, this helpful little booklet contains information on the forest fire law, first aid hints, outdoor hints, care of fish, what to do if lost in the woods, weather information, how to build your campfire, setting up and quitting camp, fish and game laws, fishing advice, and a handy reference to identify B.C. trees. This booklet can be obtained, free of charge, by writing to the Canadian Forestry Association, 509 Burrard Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Local Scots To Vie In Seattle Event

Following the annual Highland Games in Victoria July 26, Victoria Scots will invade Seattle to participate in the International Highland Games on Aug. 6.

Canadians wishing to attend the games in Seattle are advised to contact J. Arthur Young, 118 4th Avenue, Seattle, before Aug. 3, to obtain hotel reservations.

The Sound City Scottish are looking for a caber to toss and the Milwaukee Railroad has volunteered to transport it to the scene from wherever one is offered for the occasion.

Last year Seattle Scots attended the Victoria show, to get pointers to stage their own with an international flavor this year.

Teachers Collect Marine Specimens

Teachers enrolled in the visual education class of the B.C. Summer School were taken Friday to the breakwater to seek various types of marine life. George A. Hardy of the Provincial Museum accompanied the group and identified specimens.

Many of the teachers from the interior of B.C. and the prairie provinces preserved their specimens to display at their schools.

Purpose of the outing was to demonstrate the value of field work classes.

Suggests U.S.-Canada Float Loan For Roads

Canada and the United States should get together and float a big loan to be spent on highways of the North American continent, a loan that would be paid off in 50 years, said Luke De Vries, Los Angeles automobile tourist who is visiting Victoria.

Mr. De Vries differed with reports that the Vancouver-Banff highway is in fair shape. "In fairness to tourists," he said, "it should be marked dangerous but passable."

New Bus And Ambulance Bought By C. & C. Taxi Co.

Hospital patients will now be transported in these new, modern equipped ambulances which are now being used by the C. & C. Taxi Company.

One of the three new streamlined buses which is being used by the taxi company to transport air passengers between Patricia Bay and Victoria.

C. & C. Taxi To Enter Sightseeing Business

Many improvements, including a return to the sightseeing business, in order to provide the best service to the fast-growing population of Victoria, are contemplated by the new management of C. & C. Taxi Service Ltd., 906 Government Street, which was recently purchased from E. A. Calwell.

The company, the oldest firm of its kind in Victoria, plans to add five cars to its present fleet of 15 taxis and a specially designed bullet-shaped 14-passenger bus to transport Seattle air passengers between Victoria and Patricia Bay, to inaugurate an invalid coach service for bed-ridden patients.

Three new ambulances, provided with every important feature for superior ambulance service, also form part of the fleet, as well as five de luxe seven-passenger cars for use at weddings and funerals.

Three modern "Flexible" buses now in operation between Patricia Bay airport and Victoria. Fares are 75 cents, the cheapest to any airport in Canada. The company, pioneers in the sightseeing business, also plans next year to buy two new buses for that purpose.

The new management is composed of Edward C. Tucker, manager, a veteran transportation official; John D. Carlow, superintendent, with R. S. Sinclair as contact man.

Many of the taxi drivers are "old-timers" who have been with the company for many years. They include Jimmy White, Dick Chester, Jack Ross, Frank Esnouf and others.

Retires After 39 Years' Service

MISS GLADYS CRUICKSHANK

Enjoying three weeks before her retirement from the staff of the Educational Department at the Parliament Buildings, Miss Gladys Cruickshank looked back over 39 years service with a reminiscent smile.

"It doesn't seem anywhere like that length of time," she assures you, then laughs and adds, "but I suppose if I had to look forward to it again, it would make me gasp."

Miss Cruickshank went right from high school to the educational department, to a position in what was then the free textbook department.

"I wrote my first letters in longhand," she tells you, "and got them out on an old letter-press."

That was only a passing hardship though for "even if I was shy in those days, it didn't take me long to corner Dr. Alexander Robinson, the superintendent of education, and tell him we needed a typewriter."

"I don't know whether I looked quite desperate or not," she adds, "but Dr. Robinson had the typewriter there the next morning." There was just one other girl in the department when Miss Cruickshank joined, Miss Winifred Davie, now Mrs. F. J. Fulton of Kamloops, who was secretary to the superintendent.

When she left to get married Miss Cruickshank took her place, a position she has held ever since, working under eight ministers of education and three superintendents. "It was a happy experience," she tells you, "and looking back I cannot recall one incident to mar the many pleasant memories I carry away with me."

I.O.D.E. Bridge Party At Government House

Through her personal experience of the postwar needs of the peoples of Britain and a sincere wish that they should receive all possible help from Canada, Mrs. Charles A. Banks, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, has invited Victoria Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., to hold an afternoon bridge party in the ballroom at Government House on Aug. 20, from 2.30 until 5. Total proceeds will be used by the I.O.D.E. to send food parcels to Britain. Mrs. G. B. Elliott is general convener of the affair.

Miss Marie Rasmussen and her brother, Mr. Henry Rasmussen of Toronto, are in the city to attend the marriage of their sister, Miss Ruth Rasmussen, to Mr. Kenneth Dingley which takes place next weekend.

Opp. Pemberton's E 1212Noted British Flower Artist Living In Victoria
Paints Wild Flowers Of British Columbia

When Emily Sartain, recognized leader in her specialized field—the painting of flowers—came to Canada from England in 1939, she was immediately enthralled with the beauty of Canadian wild flowers.

She was eager to paint them and, by the time she had reached the Pacific Coast in that same year, had conceived the ambitious idea of making a start with a representative collection of British Columbia's wild flowers in natural colors—something which did not exist at that time.

There were more than 2,000 varieties of wild flowers in the province but that didn't daunt this petite young artist, who was quite used to overcoming the seemingly impossible.

She established her studio in Vancouver and within a year she had a fair start toward the fulfillment of her goal.

So good a start, in fact, that she included the wild flowers in an exhibition in the Vancouver Art Gallery in 1940.

The group was received with tremendous enthusiasm and was immediately bought by a Chicago patron.

"I started the collection all over again," Miss Sartain tells you, with a faint, pixie-like smile, and a twinkle in her bright eyes.

Some months ago the artist moved her studio to Victoria where she continued adding to her wild flowers collection.

SIX YEARS WORK

The 76 pictures now on exhibition in the Provincial Museum are representative of the new group she has assembled, this time in a little over six years.

Many of the flowers are familiar and their contrasting colorings are shown most effectively.

Included in the group is the flowering currant, the wood lilies, native arum, Indian paint brush in its brilliant reds and deep yellows, a spray of arbutus berries and companion pieces of dogwood in fall and in the spring.

There are lady slippers, shooting stars, cammas and satin flowers, all natives of Vancouver Island, and many other delicate little blossoms that grow in the long grasses and deep woods, as well as the more showy roadside blooms of late summer and early autumn.

These paintings will be on display at the Museum for several weeks.

This noted British flower artist has never studied in any particular art school.

The evanescent beauty of bud and blossom captured on her white board; the subtle arrangement of her subject; the exquisite colorings and the perfection of detail that makes her pictures outstanding have all been developed in her own individual way.

And what makes the story even more incredible is the fact that this unique genius has been developed in the last 15 years, by the talented young woman, by her own confession, "only started to paint seriously as a career in 1932."

LOVES FLOWERS

"I love flowers," she explains, "and I've been painting them ever since I was seven years old because they mean something very special to me."

"Finally I decided I might as well try painting flowers as a career. That's really all there was to it."

However, there's much more to it than that.

Emily Sartain, Huguenot by ancestry and English by birth, has that single-mindedness of purpose that demands she be right before she goes ahead.

She studies the flowers she paints, long and seriously. Poses them naturally and gracefully to show their individuality. Then with her water color paints and her brush she reproduces every vein in petal or leaf with exquisite accuracy.

Because of this meticulous attention to detail she has been called the "Audobon of the flowers."

Her first exhibited flower painting—a study of delphiniums and antirrhinums—hung at the exhibition of the Society of Women Artists in London, Eng., was purchased by Her Majesty, Queen Mother Mary.

"I think that brought me luck," Miss Sartain says proudly—and from the record of her further successes, it would seem she is right.

Following that first success, she exhibited in exhibitions in London and other parts of England and was awarded three Grenfell bronze medals by the Royal Horticultural Society of which she is now a Fellow.

In Vancouver, she held many exhibitions, large and small, including an annual one-man show at the Vancouver Art Gallery, every year for six years. Also exhibitions in Calgary, Edmonton, New Westminster, Victoria and Port Alberni.

The first picture she painted in Canada—a study of Madame Herriot roses—was presented to Queen Elizabeth as a memento of the Royal visit to Vancouver in 1939. The Queen's letter of acceptance is now one of the artist's most treasured possessions. Another painting, of dogwood, was presented to H.R.H. Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone.

During the war, Miss Sartain's exhibitions were all given to raise money for patriotic causes, under the auspices of the I.O.D.E., the Red Cross, Free French, Channel Island Refugees and Netherlands Relief.

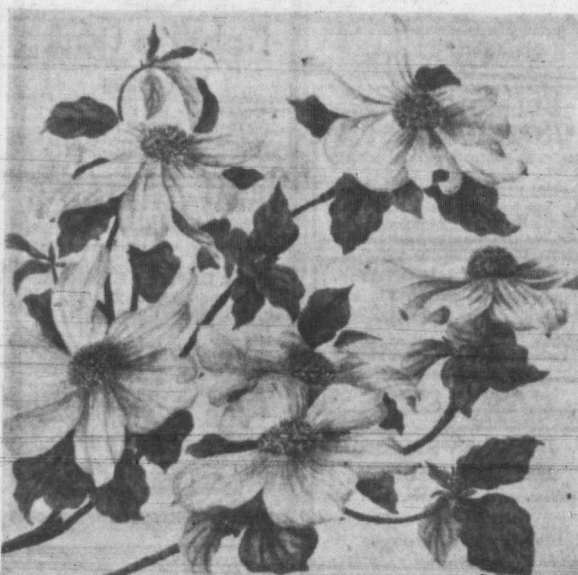

Holding pride of place alongside the letter from Queen Elizabeth is another letter from Queen Mother Mary, received in 1942, thanking her for this patriotic work.

In the past two years Miss Sartain has displayed her paintings at the Montreal Art Gallery as well as the Vancouver Gallery.

All Miss Sartain's flowers are reproduced life size, and rarely is there a background effect or the use of a vase or other extraneous matter. Her largest paintings measure 23 x 36 inches.

Once in a while however, "for my own pleasure," as the artist says, she does an exquisite miniature painting, 2 x 3 inches, that has all the delicate beauty of a petit point etching.

For relaxation this talented young woman does embroidery work and needle painting in bright colored silks—an art handed down from her Huguenot ancestors. Her design? You've guessed it—they're flowers, of course.

"Pride of British Columbia," a picture of the province's dogwood, was painted by Miss Sartain in 1943 at the request of the I.O.D.E. and Women's Canadian Club of Vancouver for presentation to H.R.H. the Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone, during her visit to the Pacific coast. The artist has a remarkable success in painting white flowers on a white background, an effect that gives the flowers a fragile depth that is almost unbelievable.

"Beauties of the Swamp," a painting included in the wild flower series. The subject is the native yellow arum... "miscalled skunk cabbage by the uninitiated," Miss Sartain says. The artist has just completed a Canadian wild flower collection that will be used on greeting cards.

Nursery School Assn.
Sponsors Meeting

Mrs. D. L. MacFarlane, a summer visitor in Victoria, will speak on the value of music in the development of the very young child at a public meeting sponsored by the Nursery School Association of Victoria, next Wednesday evening at the Art Centre. Proceeds will be used for the association's bursary fund.

Interesting experiments conducted in her unique musical nursery school in Washington, D.C., will be discussed by Mrs. MacFarlane, who worked with Dr. W. van de Wall in Kentucky in the Carnegie Community Music Project in Kentucky, and holds a masters degree in sociology as well as music degrees from Toronto and London, Eng.

Chubby girls often try to short-cut their way to slimmness by skipping breakfast, but this is not particularly effective, as pangs of hunger usually tempt them to overeat at dinner time.

Personal Notes

Miss Marjorie Tebo is on two months' holiday at Banff and will return to the city the latter part of August.

Visiting with Canon and Mrs. S. Ryall, 821 Transit Road, for the next few weeks, are Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie Ballingal of Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Mrs. Harvey Wallace arrived in Vancouver today by plane from Brussels, Belgium, where she has been visiting friends and relations during the past two months. She was met by Mr. Wallace, and they will return to their home on Yates Street in a few days.

Mrs. Gordon Abernethy, accompanied by her daughter, Diane, are traveling in the interior of British Columbia visiting at Merritt, Crescent Beach and in Vancouver before their return to the city. At present, guests at the Abernethy residence, 1249 Rockland Avenue, are Mrs. A. E. Abernethy, Mr. Abernethy's mother, and Mrs. W. Rose, who will return to their homes at Crescent in several weeks.

Honoring Mrs. Arthur Boyer, nee Doris Oliver, Mrs. H. Luney and Mrs. J. W. Jones entertained at the home of the former, Royal Oak, with a miscellaneous shower. Corsage bouquets were presented to the principal and her mother, Mrs. J. Oliver. Guests included Mesdames W. F. Burgess, R. Slater, H. MacDonald, H. Slater, E. Ellington, R. Oliver, Anderson, Preece, E. R. Heal, W. Heal, J. Mycock, W. Stothers, R. Amos, W. Heater, H. Knight, R. Smith, A. Quayle, J. Marston, T. T. Hutchinson, and Misses Lorraine Luney and Renee Heal.

Spring flowers decorated the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Miller, Gorge Road West, when their daughter Miss Jeanne Stewart entertained in honor of Miss Marian Belton, whose marriage to Mr. Raymond Northrop of Leeds, Eng., will take place in Winnipeg early in August. The guest of honor received a corsage bouquet of a white gardenia set in pink roses and little Patricia Miller presented the gifts concealed in a decorated doll's carriage. Pink and white streamers suspended from a decorated ceiling lamp and fresh flowers decorated the tea table. The invited

MEMORIAL
"Diary of Our Own Peeps," by E. W. Harrold (Ryerson Press).

IN "The Diary of Our Own Peeps" the friends of E. W. Harrold of Ottawa have produced an unusual memorial to the associate editor of the Ottawa Citizen, who died in 1945 at the age of 56.

For 15 years Harrold wrote a weekly column in the Citizen in the style of Peeps and it became the oldest continuous newspaper feature of its kind in Canada, a description that probably would have annoyed Harrold. His column told an interesting running story of life in Ottawa, of his family, his friends, his hobbies and gave one of the most able editorial writers in Canada an opportunity for sly potshots at the mighty.

It amused Ottawa then and it is striking how well his comments on life have worn. This is due in good measure to the care and the hard work that went into "belling" down the 800,000 words accumulated during the 15 years into the 100,000 that went into the book.

Eleven friends took on the first job of cutting the 800,000 words in half. It was then turned over to I. Norman Smith, rival newspaper man and friend of Harrold's who completed the job of editing.

NO FORMULA ANSWER

"The Struggle for Atomic Control," by William T. R. Fox; Canadian Forum Book Service.

THE NEWEST pamphlet of the Public Affairs series being released in Canada by the Canadian Forum Book Service is written by William T. R. Fox, associate professor of political science at Yale University and research associate in the Yale Institute of International Studies.

In the 32 pages of the pamphlet Dr. Fox has given a clear, factual history of the negotiation which have taken place in the setting up of the Atomic Energy Commission and within the meetings of the United Nations.

He has carefully weighed the differences of opinion between the great powers, particularly Russia and the United States, and the conciliatory role which Canada has attempted to play.

He gives no formula answer to the vexing problem of how atomic power is to be controlled and the destruction of civilization as we know it avoided, but does state categorically: "A way can be found for agreement if the will exists on both sides."

Book Notes

The Royal Society of Canada has conferred the Lorne Pierce Gold Medal for 1947 on Dorothy Livesay. The medal, first given in 1926, has been awarded to the greatest writers in Canadian literature, including such men as Sir Charles G. D. Roberts, Bliss Carman, and Duncan Campbell Scott.

More than 30,000 copies of "Peter Magpie" have been sold in Norway. The book is to be published in English by John Murray this summer. It is written and illustrated by Paul Lorek Eidem, a well-known Norwegian artist and tells the adventures of a mischievous but lovable little bird.

Prizes Presented By Accountants

The Institute of Chartered Accountants of British Columbia held its 42nd annual general meeting in the Hotel Vancouver under the chairmanship of its president, R. R. Keay, C.A., Friday.

Members elected to the council for the ensuing year were as follows: Thomas Bailey (Victoria), J. R. Church, V. R. Clertue, H. W. Edwardson, G. D. Imrie (Kelowna), R. R. Keay, J. Lorn McLean, W. R. C. Patrick, A. M. Reid, W. Grant Ross, J. L. Watters and J. C. Wilson.

A fellowship in the institute was conferred upon W. G. Rowe of Vancouver, and in addition a presentation of a silver tray was made to Mr. Rowe, in appreciation of his years of work in raising the standard of education of students of the institute.

D. J. Kelsey was presented with the gold medal awarded by the institute for attaining first place in British Columbia in the 1946 final uniform examinations, and G. A. Chambers was presented with the silver medal awarded by the institute for attaining first place in British Columbia in the 1946 intermediate uniform examinations. Presentation of certificates was made to newly-admitted members.

A golf match was played in the afternoon at the Vancouver Golf and Country Club, Burnhamthorpe, followed by an informal dinner in the clubhouse in the evening.

Ships In Collision Near Folkestone

DEAL, Kent, Eng. (Reuter)—The 7,000-ton United States liberty ship George Bancroft was in collision in a fog early today with the 1,576-ton Swedish steamship Inger off Folkestone.

The Inger's port bow was severely damaged two feet above the waterline, but she reported by radio that she was otherwise watertight and did not require assistance as long as the sea remained calm.

Damage to the George Bancroft was unknown as she disappeared into the fog after the collision.

Attitude Of Mind Is Essence Of Faith

Scripture: Job 1:8; 2:10; 19:7; 42:1-5; James 5:11.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
At the outset of Job's suffering a character appears other than the three principal speakers, Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar. It is Job's wife, and her words are in verses 9 and 10 of the second chapter.

Many wives have been a support to husbands in distress, at least giving helpful sympathy, and many husbands in a similar situation have been of great help to their wives.

But Job's wife was no help—in fact she seems to have added to his troubles by her unsympathetic and nagging attitude.

Apparently without any vital faith herself she virtually taunted Job with his own faith, saying to him, in effect, "Now, where's your God? What's the use of your faith, when you're covered with boils from head to foot? You'd better curse God and die."

What a woman! A man covered with boils could be pardoned for being irritable, but Job surely was doubly justified in losing some of his patience, and telling her that she was speaking like a fool: "Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh."

But in the rest of his reply wisdom conquered impatience. In memorable words he said: "What? Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?" The record truly says that "in all this did not Job sin with his lips."

There were times when Job's faith and patient endurance were not so strong, when his suffering seemed greater than he could bear, and when he felt as Jesus was to feel on the Cross, as if God had forsaken him. One might call such a mood a not unnatural reaction to intense suffering. The outcry of Jesus was more an agonizing prayer than an expression of lack of faith. Did He not say to the penitent thief, "Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise?"

It is not the mood of the moment, but the attitude of mind and heart—and will—that is the essence of faith, and of trust in God.

The Bible teaches consistently that the good and upright are secure in God's keeping, no matter what may befall them, but it does not teach that they are immune from trouble. The prophets held their faith, and were true to their mission, through deep persecution and suffering.

But when Paul had listed all the troubles that could befall man, and all the forces that could war against him (Romans 8) his conclusion was that noth-

Astronomists List Summer Lectures

The 16th annual summer course in astronomy will be held Monday evening from July 28 to Aug. 25.

Schedule of meetings follow:
July 28—The Panorama of the Sky, R. M. Petrie.

Aug. 4—Plants and Stars, Mrs. J. R. Noble.

Aug. 11—Visit to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Aug. 18—Present Day Weather Forecasting, W. Buscombe.

Aug. 25—The Galaxies, W. Petrie.

The trip to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory has been made available to members to view interesting objects in the heavens, and the constellations will be pointed out to those who are not familiar with the sky. Each telescope will be looked after by a member of the society and questions will be answered fully.

The course is especially designed for those who are making first acquaintance with the stars and planets.

Registration may be made with the secretary, Miss Jean K. McDonald, 1082 Cloverdale Avenue, E 8350; Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Col. 201; the president, Dr. Andrew McKellar, 1025 McClure Street, E 3771, or at the first meeting.

Prepares For Solo Round-World Flight

CHICAGO (AP)—The Reynolds "Bombshell" will take off from Chicago Sunday, Aug. 3, in an attempt to break the solo round the world flight record, it was announced today.

Franklin Lamb, president of the Reynolds Pen Company, which is sponsoring the flight, said Pilot Bill Odom will leave the Chicago International Airport, formerly the Douglas Airport, between noon and 2 p.m. Central Daylight Time.

Odom will attempt to break the record set in 1933 by Wiley Post, who circled the globe alone in 187 hours. Odom will fly the Reynolds "Bombshell," which last April set a world's round-the-world record for a plane with a crew.

3% of Children Die From Polio; Symptoms Given

Suppose polio does strike, despite precautions! How is the disease recognized? Unfortunately the symptoms are the same as those for a number of other ailments. There may be nausea, vomiting, fever, headache, a slight stiffness of neck and back. But call the doctor at once. If there is high fever, doctors are pretty sure that it is not polio. Positive diagnosis is obtained by several means. Abdominal and other reflexes are checked and so is knee-jerk. If they are weakened or absent, that is suggestive. Spinal fluid is withdrawn for microscopic examination. In polio this normally clear fluid becomes cloudy with cells—debris from the microbe attack.

If these various tests indicate a child has polio, parents should not become panicky. The disease cripples or kills in only a relatively small proportion of its victims. Figures on a carefully studied Baltimore epidemic highlight this fact. In this epidemic 50 per cent of children had no after-effects whatsoever. Twenty-nine per cent had slight after-effects—a weakened arm or leg muscle which would regain normal strength in time. Eighteen per cent suffered bad crippling and 3 per cent died. Thus four out of five came through polio with little to show for it except a few weeks in bed.

"The Latest on Polio" is an article in the August edition of Woman's Home Companion, now on sale at your magazine dealer's. Every mother and father in Victoria and district will want to read this article in the event polio should spread to this vicinity. Woman's Home Companion is distributed on Vancouver Island by Lovick's News Agency, Victoria, B.C.

Train Kills Woman; Police Seek Man

BRUCE MINES, Ont.—Police investigating the death of 38-year-old Clara Meyen under the wheels of a Canadian Pacific freight train Wednesday night were reported Friday night to be seeking a man with whom she was seen prior to the tragedy at this northern Ontario town.

A name tag found beside the broken body indicating she came from St. Louis, Mo., also bore names of relatives in that city, who are now on their way here for the inquest Monday.

James Moody, engineer of the train that struck her, said he saw one or two people walking along the track, dimly outlined in the beam of the train's searchlight cutting through the rain. Then, he said, the woman was either pushed or hurled herself in front of the train. "I didn't have a chance in the world of stopping," he said.

Movie Tells Story Of Long Manhunt

When a round-the-world quest for a sinister fugitive leads to a quiet little New England village, the three people most directly involved in the crisis find themselves plunged into tense emotional conflict. International Pictures' latest RKO Radio release stars Edward G. Robinson, Loretta Young and Orson Welles in the memorable melodrama, "The Stranger," now being shown at the York Theatre.

Directed by Welles and produced by S. P. Eagle, the unusual offering tells what happens when a relentless man-hunter trails his prey to a sleepy Connecticut town by shadowing the man's former accomplice. The detective and the accomplice arrive on the eve of the fugitive's marriage to the prettiest girl in town. Fearing exposure, the hunted man murders his accomplice and conceals the body just before he leaves on his honeymoon.

The necessity to fasten this last killing upon the fugitive in order to convict him of his previous crimes, provides mounting suspense.

ROYAL THEATRE

With all the womanly wiles of her eight years, little Ann Carter tilted her ash-blond head and batted her blue eyes at Humphrey Bogart, whose daughter she was portraying in his Barbara Stanwyck co-starrer at Warner Bros., "The Two Mrs. Carrolls," the Royal Theatre's new film.

One day, Alexis Smith, the third principal in the film, evinced some curiosity in the moppet's action.

"What," asked Alexis, "are you doing, Ann?"

"Oh," was the airy response of eight-year-old Miss Carter, who evidently had heard of Lauren Bacall, "I'm giving him 'The Look'!"

OAK BAY THEATRE

Of all the British customs, one that just about drove Raymond Massey to distraction was tea time during filming of technical color hit, "Stairway to Heaven." Co-starring David Niven, Massey and Roger Livesey, the Universal International release now is at the Oak Bay Theatre.

It seems that just when Massey was all set to do the final take on a scene, someone suddenly would appear with tea trays and for 15 minutes everything would stop. That happened unfailingly at 10.30, 3.30 and 6. By the time the production was finished, Massey was begging for the Hollywood method of uninterrupted shooting.

ATLAS THEATRE

The joys and sorrows of the inhabitants of a small American town are brilliantly portrayed in Frank Capa's new comedy-drama, "It's a Wonderful Life," in which James Stewart makes his welcome return to the screen. Donna Reed co-stars in this Liberty Films' production for RKO Radio, release, now at the Atlas Theatre.

DOMINION THEATRE

Harry von Zell, who has combined radio announcing with starring in two-reel comedies at Columbia, plays his first feature picture role in the studio's "The Guilt of Janet Ames," a love drama that is strikingly different. The film, in which Von Zell plays a reporter, stars Rosalind Russell and Melvyn Douglas and is at the Dominion Theatre.

Woodenface Competition Will Feature Juvenile Ball Week

Commencing with registration for the Woodenface competition Monday and winding up with a triple header program in Athletic Park Saturday, Juvenile Baseball Week will be presented by officials of the Victoria Minor Baseball Association in the city next week.

The woodenface competition will be held daily from 3 to 5 at Athletic Park. Entries in three age groups, 12 and under, 14 and under and 16 and under, will be accepted Monday at the park from 3 to 5.

Finals will be held at 7:30 Saturday with the Little and Taylor Trophy going to the grand winner. Section winners and runners-up will receive prizes.

During this season the Minor Baseball Association has catered to 18 clubs in bantam, midget and juvenile divisions. Games are played every night of the week at upper and lower Beacon Hill Park, Heywood Avenue, and Spencer's Park.

Many fine trophies have been donated for the championship teams, including the Ted Carey award for juveniles. Showers Electric trophy for midgets and the Jim Beckerley Cup for bantams.

SMART PROGRAM

Leading teams and players of the respective divisions will be seen in action in the triple bill, first of its kind ever presented here, Saturday. At 1.30 Associated Boys' Club will meet an all-star team from the bantam league; at 3.45 Cameron Wood and Coal will play Tillcum's in a midget contest and at 8, under the arcs, Fletcher's Men's Wear will meet Tillcum's in a juvenile game. A band will be in attendance for the woodenface finals and the night contest.

"Slim" Hunt, caretaker at Athletic Park, has been named umpire-in-chief of the woodenface contest.

Fans taking in the Saturday triple bill will see the juveniles decked out in complete uniforms and will probably be surprised at the calibre of the ball displayed by these youngsters.

Eagles Turn Back Pitzer And Nex: Week-end Battles

Taking advantage of Murray MacArthur's wildness, Eagles increased their senior baseball league lead last night, taking the measure of Rosy McLellan's Pitzer and Nex squad, 6 to 4. Defeat left the gasmen only a game ahead of the last-place Navy nine.

Bernie Anderson's single driving in Charlton, who had doubled, gave losers a one-run lead in the opening session. However, the birdmen found the score sheet in the second to move ahead, 2 to 1, when three hits, an error and a fielder's choice were good for a pair of tallies. Pitzer and Nex deadlocked the count in the top of the fourth, Jim Wright crossing the dish on MacArthur's ground-out.

This set the stage for winners' four-run rally in their half of the same inning, when with the aid of only one hit, Eagles capitalized on four walks, a wild toss, and two hit batsmen to score what proved to be the deciding tallies. That marked the end for MacArthur, and manager McLellan came in to finish out the contest, holding the birdmen scoreless the rest of the way, limiting them to two hits.

Service-station crew came through with their last brace of markers in the eighth when they put together a trio of hits, a passed ball and a long outfield fly.

Pitzer and Nex outthit the feathered tribe, 10 to 7, but their inability to hit in the clutch cost them the contest. Bobby Prior hurled the win, taking four on strikes and issuing only two passes.

Week-end games will see Chemainus play Pitzer and Nex here Sunday afternoon at Macdonald Park at 2.30, while Navy will journey up-island to engage GJ Bruce's Duncan all-stars in a Sunday double bill.

With The Lawn Bowlers

By TOM McKEACHIE

Preparations are now being made for the Greater Victoria annual bowling tournament. Last year's event drew an entry of over 400. Indications are that this year's affair will attract an even greater number with entries already in from Los Angeles, Seattle, Penticton and other outside points. Tournament week is Aug. 4 to 9 inclusive. Entries close July 26.

LAKE HILL

Club singles have reached the quarter finals and doubles are half completed. Monday will see commencement of triples in the Crouch Cup. Wednesday promises to be an interesting afternoon and evening featuring a "Country Fair." Special games and novelty events have been arranged as well as produce stalls. Visitors will be welcomed.

VICTORIA WEST

The past week was featured by a competition for the Fairall Cup doubles. Jim Smith and Bob Stewart managed to win in the finals over Ernie Eastham and Steve Kinsey, one up. Two rinks from the club skipped by Charlie Fea and Jack Imrie have been representing the club in the Vancouver tournament. Jim Keating was over for the "champion of champions" event.

Entries for the Barnard Cup are now being received. Forms are in the hands of the individual club secretaries. This cup is for mixed rinks and will be played for on the Victoria West greens July 26 and Aug. 2.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Play is under way in the club singles, doubles and triples; but is still in the early stages. Other events creating interest and producing some keen matches are the handicap singles and the Scots doubles. Noticeable is the number of tourists among the spectators. A recent visitor from south of the border stated that he was not only interested in the "fine old game" but was enjoying the broad Scotch brogue of some of the players.

BURNSIDE

Mixed doubles held the limelight this week as the first round progressed in the Cross Cup. Play has been interrupted by several of the entrants attending the Vancouver tournament. Those that have not played their first round games will play Monday at 7.15. Second round will start Wednesday at the same time. Mrs. Waddington, co-holder of the cup with Jim Kennair, is this year teamed with Jack Imrie. Club draws and friendly games are continuing both afternoons and evenings.

BEACON HILL

Doubles games are holding sway on these greens. Club doubles, Lloyd doubles and Totem mixed doubles are all being run off. In the club singles championship Dick Harrison has emerged victorious among the evening players and is awaiting for the afternoon champion to be declared to play the final.

Tonight will usher in the first of a series of "grocery games." The draw is set for 7.15 and visitors and club members will be out to "bring home the bacon." The greens at Beacon Hill are responding nicely to the care they are being given and are much keener than in former years.

Bob Watson Wins Electricians' Golf

Firing a gross 81, which minus a handicap of 13 reduced his net score to 68, Bob Watson captured the Victoria Electric Club Trophy at the second annual golf tournament for members of the electrical industry at Colwood Golf Club. Hugo Allen with 84-13—71 to take runner-up honors. Low gross prize went to Don Davis with an 81. John Potts finished second.

Following the tournament a dinner was held in the clubhouse at which visitors from Vancouver and up-land points were welcomed.

Central Baptist Win Softball Title

Central Baptist Church annexed the junior boy's softball championship of the Church League this week by taking the third game of the best-of-three series: from First Baptist, 7 to 6. It was a well-earned victory for the Central Baptist nine as First Baptist had taken the first game, 5 to 3, and the new Armada's Victoria Bakery Cup title-holders had to take the final two battles for the title.

Contender For Auto Racing Honors

Jack Spaulding of Vancouver seen at the wheel of the fast No. 44 car, owned by Don Olds and Bill Perkins of Seattle, will be among the smart field in tonight's weekly program of auto races at the Langford Speedway. Time trials open the show at 7.30.

Par-Busting Locke Tops Canadian Golf Field

TORONTO (CP)—Stolal

Bobby Locke, the South African golf tourist, was out in front by a nose as the $10,000 Canadian Open championship entered the stretch today. And if the wise money is as wise as it claims to be the man with the Harry Vardon swing will win the big event and the $2,000 first prize money in a common cause.

To previous rounds of 68 and 66, Locke yesterday added a 67, once again shattering Scarborough's par 71 as he took the lead at the three-quarter mark with a 54-hole score of 201, 12 under course figures.

That put him one stroke ahead of the halfway leader, Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., and Nick Wismock, former Ontario open champion and one time Scarborough

Bobby Locke Plays In Vancouver Sept. 10

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bobby Locke, the South African golfing wizard will be in Vancouver for an exhibition match Sept. 10, it was learned today. Locke, who has won six U.S. tournaments since his arrival from South Africa, is being sponsored by George Norgan, who has put up a $1,500 guarantee.

Gouge Family Leads In Salmon Derby

With a 32½-pound spring salmon to his credit Wilf Gouge is leading in the annual salmon derby of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association. Fishing off Macaulay Point Gouge landed three big fish, the other two tipping the scales at 16½ and 22 pounds.

Angling from the same boat Wilf Gouge Jr. pulled in a 25½-pounder to take a strangle hold on the junior prize.

To date keen interest is being shown in the competition which closes Sept. 1.

Fishermen are reminded there will be six hidden-weight prizes awarded and should weigh in several fish so as to increase their chances.

News Of The Anglers

By ROY THORSEN

A cheque in the amount of $1,511 will be turned over to the Queen Alexandra Solarium next week—the proceeds from the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association's second annual salmon derby promotion on July 6—by Harry Woolston, president. It betters the 1946 total by $144.

Tomorrow will be "Kids Day" in Saanich Inlet, when the younger generation of the angling clan—18 years and under—vie for a neat array of prizes in the association's first major angling contest for the young folk.

Short shots on this derby: Opens at 8 in the morning and closes at 4 with prize presentation at the Anchorage headquarters, Brentwood. Any junior derbyist—who must be a member, incidentally—without transportation to the fishing grounds will find this outside the City Hall at 7 tomorrow morning for both Hall's end and Brentwood. Any anglers whose cars will be able to take juniors are asked to call at the hall at 7 before proceeding out to the fishing grounds. Anchorage weigh-in committee is composed of Les Dicks, George Mann, Fred Smith and Bill Archer.

BUTTON CATCHES

Anchorage Boathouse at Brentwood had the week's heaviest number of big salmon weighed in with four. D. A. Larson from Portland, guided by Doc Smith, took a 21½-pounder in the Deep Hole. Using abalone spoons, 200 feet of line and one pound of weight Bob Nicol and Charlie Rippingale scored 23½ and 25-pound heavies off the Stone House. Mrs. Jim Cole scored a 22-pounder off Whitaker's Point. Hall's Goldstream boathouse reported these catches of the week: J. Sinclair and F. J. Willovoys, 19½ and 6½; Eng Que, 16; Dick Berry, 10; Horace and Bert Beer, 16; R. Warnock and Bud West, 15, 14 and 10; C. Stephenson and L. Johnston, 28½ and 14½; and Fred Bramble, 14½, one smaller.

One of the biggest catches of the week was taken by Capt. A. C. Cruchley, a creel of five, heaviest going 22½ pounds. Harry Gilbert reported.

While most of the fish of the past six days were small springs, there is a good showing of grise in the waters from Bamberton to Mill Bay. Also the coho are in evidence, several being taken during the week.

Ardent sportsman Thomas Dicks is one of the few shooting for the most-button-fish silverware in the association. To date we have handled five of his bronze catches. He weighed in the fifth at Barney Brophy's boathouse, a 21½-pounder.

Reports of angling activity off Oak Bay are not encouraging at the present time. Some good fish have been taken by a few anglers during the past couple of weeks, but no run of any size has reached there yet.

BREVITIES

After three weeks of goose eggs, printer Syd Jenkins finally hit paydirt off Oak Bay in the form of a 20-pounder. Esquimalt waters are offering salmon, too, and Mike "Popeye" Chambers had a 25-pounder to show for it recently. To add to the chagrin of losing two estimated 20-pound salmon at Oak Bay, Harold Turner of the Times suffered further humiliation last week-end. Harold's young son, Keith, arrived home with a 12½-pounder.

Births, Marriages In B.C. Increase; Divorces Down

Births and marriages are continuing to stay at a high level in B.C., while divorces are showing a slight decline over last year's figures, according to the vital statistics for May, issued by the B.C. Department of Health and Welfare.

In May, the birth rate stayed at a high level, almost paralleling that of the previous month, and approaching the all-time peak of July, 1946. There were 2,144 births registered in the province during May, giving a rate of 25.73 per 1,000 population compared with 1,860 births, and a rate of 22.86 in May of last year.

Births registered in the first five months of this year numbered 10,173, compared with 8,070 in the same period of 1946; a birth rate of 24.42, as compared with 19.84 per 1,000 live births.

The death rate has also increased slightly. During the month, there were 894 deaths registered, or a death rate of 10.73, compared with 836 deaths and a rate of 10.27 in May, 1946.

The number of marriages still shows an increase over the previous year. Marriages registered in May totaled 950, compared with 858 in the same month of the previous year.

Divorces continue to decline slightly compared with the same period last year. There were 165 divorce decrees granted in May of this year, compared with 200 in the same month of last year. The number of divorces granted this year total 844, compared with 859 in 1946.

Adoptions and legitimations on the other hand increased greatly during the month. There were 46 adoptions registered during May, compared with 29 in the same month last year. In addition, 13 legitimations were ordered during May, compared with eight in May of last year.

Thirty-two changes of name were also granted, compared with 41 in May of the previous year.

In addition to the above current registrations there were also 151 registrations for Indians on reservations, as follows: 87 births, 49 deaths and 13 marriages.

Despite the high level of births, during the month there were 62 deaths of infants under one year of age, compared with 71 in the corresponding month of last year, giving an infant mortality rate of 28.92, compared with 38.17 per 1,000 live births in 1946. The rate for the first five months of the year is still slightly higher than that for a similar period last year.

Maternity mortality also decreased markedly with only two deaths registered during May, compared with five in May, 1946, or a rate of .93, compared with 2.69 per 1,000 live births.

Motorcyclist injured in Malahat collision. Walter Dawe, Saanich Police night clerk suffered a fracture of one of his left foot bones when his motorcycle was in collision with an automobile driven by a United States tourist on the Malahat Friday afternoon.

Dawe was returning from a trip to Island. Little damage was done to either bike or car. Dawe rode his machine to Saanich Police headquarters where one of the constables took him to St. Joseph's Hospital.

It will be recommended that court action be taken against Anthony Kirleisch, 2760 Triumph Street, Vancouver, for damages done to the city float at the foot of Yates Street, Jan. 10. Amount of damage is $103.80.

Special school crossing markings will be recommended at the request of Const. Brooke Douglas for Burnside, Oaklands, George Jay, Quadra and Margaret Jenkins Schools, and on Pandora Avenue at Chambers Street in preparation for the next school term.

Elimination of the 15-mile-an-hour school zone on Hillside Avenue, between Douglas and Rose Streets, will be recommended.

Return To Jobs Monday. Construction workers of all building trades will return to work Monday, Roy T. Loughheed, secretary of the Victoria Builders' Exchange, announced this morning.

He said, however, he had no information on whether or not electrical workers of Local No. B 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, who left their jobs July 2 for a "holiday," would return to work Monday.

Local Improvement Project Sought For Redfern Street

The first local-improvement scheme to be undertaken by Victoria in more than 30 years will be recommended by the public works committee to Monday's City Council meeting. It is for the improvement of Redfern Street.

The construction of concrete sidewalks and paving of the road between Oak Bay Avenue and Leighton Road will cost an estimated $8,903 and be paid for over a 15-year period. The city will bear two-thirds of the cost, together with the frontage tax on corner lots which extend lengthwise along Redfern.

The sidewalks will cost property owners $1.26 a foot and the road paving $5.00 a foot frontage. For sidewalks owners will pay $3.69 to $5.59 a year taxes and for roads $13.82 to $22.20. The residents last year requested the work be done.

A. J. D. Hunter, committee chairman, stated the committee is considering a proposal whereby commercial delivery cars would pay a flat fee of $10 a year for vehicles up to 17 feet long and $20 a year for those longer, which would permit drivers to stand the cars at parking meters without depositing a coin.

Present loading zones will be continued, and it will be recommended to Monday's council meeting that parking be prohibited on the south side of Burdett between Douglas and Penwell Streets; that the 44 feet of "no parking" area adjacent to the Dominion Hotel be changed to a loading zone; that the Panatorium Dye Works be granted space for two cars on the east side of Quadra Street between Mears and Fort Street, and that three automobile crossings be granted to the McColl-Frontenac Oil Co. for its property on the southeast corner of Wharf and Broughton.

It will be recommended that court action be taken against Anthony Kirleisch, 2760 Triumph Street, Vancouver, for damages done to the city float at the foot of Yates Street, Jan. 10. Amount of damage is $103.80.

Special school crossing markings will be recommended at the request of Const. Brooke Douglas for Burnside, Oaklands, George Jay, Quadra and Margaret Jenkins Schools, and on Pandora Avenue at Chambers Street in preparation for the next school term.

Teacher Awarded Croix De Guerre

G. A. V. Thomson, Victoria High School teacher, now attending summer school in Vancouver, has been awarded the Croix de Guerre for the conspicuous part he played in the Normandy invasion. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomson, 2730 Blackwood Street.

Discharged from the navy with the rank of lieutenant-commander, Mr. Thomson, in command of the corvette Lindsay during the invasion, outmanoeuvred a force of five German E-boats which had attacked a convoy. One torpedo missed Lindsay by 12 feet, but the convoy drove on, making the crossing without loss of a ship.

Before enlistment in 1941, Mr. Thomson taught at Tillamook School. He was graduated in the second class by H.M.C.S. Royal Roads.

Naval Veteran Here

Charles Robert Hall, 79, veteran of the Royal Navy and Royal Canadian Navy, is visiting Victoria from his home in Berkeley, Calif. Mr. Hall is staying with his son, Frank Hall, 3561 Quadra Street.

Mr. Hall came to Canada in 1910 as a chief petty officer on H.M.C.S. Niobe, after having served with the Royal Navy for some years. His service in the navy totals 36 years.

He served with the Royal Canadian Navy College when it was first at Halifax, then at Kingston and later at Esquimalt, where it was discontinued in 1923.

Fines imposed by Magistrate Henry C. Hall on 24 city motorists in police court this morning totaled $127.50. Of this total, five were $15 fines for speeding.

Doctors Appoint Committee To Meet New Hotel Group

The Victoria Medical Society has appointed a three-man committee to discuss plans for the inclusion of a medical-dental section in the new $3,000,000 hotel being planned for erection on the City Hall site, Milton King, Victoria member of the hotel syndicate group, announced today.

The doctors, Dr. J. H. Moore, Dr. A. F. McGill and Dr. H. G. Grieve, will meet with W. H. Specht, Seattle member of the syndicate, and the architect, when they come to Victoria Tuesday.

The Victoria District and Dental Society has also indicated interest in the proposal to have a medical-dental block of offices in the new building, and will probably appoint a representative to the committee.

R. J. Fancett and A. B. Nixon, Alberta members of the syndicate which is putting up the money for the hotel, are expected back in Victoria by the end of the month and will spend some time here, Mr. King said.

He anticipated that the first drawings of the new hotel would be ready within a month of six weeks.

The ratepayers will be asked this December to give approval to the leasing of the City Hall property for the hotel purposes, and the demolition of the present building.

Fines imposed by Magistrate Henry C. Hall on 24 city motorists in police court this morning totaled $127.50. Of this total, five were $15 fines for speeding.

There Is NO Substitute for Church tone

Only in the WURLITZER electric organ will you find that strict adherence to the specifications and high standards demanded by the American Guild of Organists.

WURLITZER ORGAN

Here's an instrument that completely dispels the natural objections of an organist used to the full performance of a church pipe organ. It duplicates exactly the full-throated harmony of famous instruments bringing out the full beauty of church music.

Discuss Personnel Problems In B.C. At Conference Here

Problems and methods of recent government personnel practices in B.C. were outlined by government officials at the final day of the annual conference of the Civil Service Assembly (western region) of U.S. and Canada at the Empress Hotel Friday.

The discussions were designed to acquaint other conference delegates with methods used here in personnel work. The majority of the 90 delegates came from the U.S. Pacific coast, and two came from Honolulu.

Larger portion of the day was taken up with the discussion under the chairmanship of E. W. Griffith, member of the Civil Service Commission, and B.C. deputy minister of social welfare.

A. W. E. Pitkethly, personnel officer for the B.C. Department of Public Works, discussed the recently completed classification of all outside employees of the provincial government. Provision now is made for monthly and daily rate employees to contribute to the retirement fund. If employed a definite number of days in a 10-year period, they can receive benefits on retirement.

J. Adams, district personnel officer for the Dominion Department of Veterans' Affairs, dealt with personnel problems in D.V.A. and explained a new graphic rating chart designed by the B.C. authorities of D.V.A. whereby a more scientific method is used to evaluate employees every six months. There was considerable discussion on the merits of quantitative and qualitative methods.

K. G. Slade, manager of industrial relations, H.M.C. Dockyard, Esquimalt, explained the widely diversified occupations in the dockyard and the problems met in dealing with hourly-rate employees, particularly where a skilled artisan may be required to do less skilled work during periods when there is no work available of the type for which the employee was originally hired.

Another speaker on the problems of personnel work was O. A. Petersen, vice-president of the Pacific Northwest Personnel Association, and personnel manager B.C. Electric Railway Co. Ltd. Mr. Petersen told delegates employees could no longer be dealt with as they were some years ago. There now had to be a definite interest taken in each employee, he said, and the personnel officer should see each employee is located in the type of work he is best suited to obtain the best work.

No. 59 I.A.A. Workshop, R.C. E.M.E. will parade Tuesday at 7.45. Roll call order with belts and anklets. This is the final parade before the summer break and will take the form of a smelter. There will be a sergeants' mess meeting on Tuesday.

The Canadian Scottish will parade Monday at 7.30. Dress, battle dress, blouse, kilt, etc. Sports parade will be held Thursday at 7.30.

Education Campaign On Credit Buying

Safe and sound credit for buyer and seller alike is the policy of the Victoria Credit Granters' Association and they intend to continue their public education campaign in September, Harry B. Dawson, secretary, said today, while commenting on Quebec's plan of controls over purchases on credit.

"Our plan is for the protection for buyer and seller without recourse to government control in the matter of installment sales, at the present," Mr. Dawson said.

He said there was a strong feeling among city credit granters in favor of controlled installment sales by way of a standard form that would operate sensibly for seller and purchaser alike.

Decorated Vehicle Parade At Oak Bay

A decorated vehicle parade, children's concert and boxing bouts were held under the auspices of the Oak Bay Playground committee at Windsor Park yesterday, and attracted 200 parents and children.

Prize-winners in the vehicle parade were Patty Hotum, Dian Parsons, Lynn Archer, Catherine Wood, Frances Dailin, Karen Child and Jennifer Maunsel. Donna McLaughlin, Larry McLaughlin, Ruth Gilman, Patty Huntley, Ian Corbett, Marilyn Tucker and Joan Meeling in the girls' section.

Boys' awarded prizes included Keith Tucker, Bobby Smith, Robin Farquhar, Kit Archer, Andrew Stokes, Mark Kealing, Peter Child, Bob Jeffrey and Dennis Tucker.

Phyllis Rose was mistress of ceremonies for a children's concert with which folk dances and singing.

Julius Matson and George Jackson, Mark Kealing and Terry Daniels and Brian Dawson and Bill Macconnachie engaged in the boxing bouts. Paul King refereed. Macconnachie was awarded a special prize.

B.C. Roads Compare With Those In U.S.

In Victoria today, Rolfe Whitnall, Yakima, Wash., reported he has found B.C. roads as good as those of most of the Pacific northwest states through which he has traveled as field editor for a lumber journal.

On volunteering his views on the road conditions in this province, Mr. Whitnall suggested understanding of the situation. There was plenty of reconstruction work on B.C. roads, he had found, and he believes they will be good roads when completed.

He arrived here following a trip down the Island Highway Friday. He found conditions were not too bad and had no complaints to make. Neither, for that matter, had any of his many Yakima friends who came here regularly for their summer holidays, he added.

"I think people should be reasonable and not expect the province with its comparatively small population and large area to get all the road jobs done at once," he said.

Department Reports 3 New Polio Cases

Three new cases of poliomyelitis were reported to the B.C. Department of Health today to bring the provincial total of cases occurring since the beginning of the year to 58. One case was reported in Kelowna, and two in Beavercreek, near Rock Creek in the south central section of the province where two cases were reported Friday.

Vacationists and week-ending motorists in the province are advised against consumption of unsafe milk and unwashed fruit and vegetables as a precaution against contracting the disease. Consumption of pasteurized milk and cream, and careful storage of all milk products, is advisable. Campers can pasteurize raw milk by heating it to 165 degrees, or until a skin forms on the surface, holding it at that temperature for one minute, and then cooling it rapidly and storing in a cool insect-proof place.

The public is again reminded by the department that during epidemics, tonsil and adenoid operations and tooth extractions should be postponed whenever possible.

To Appeal Sentence On Forgery Count

Byron Patterson of Vancouver, convicted on a charge of forgery and sentenced to two years by Magistrate H. S. Wood on June 23, has filed a notice of appeal from sentence, which was received at the courthouse in Victoria today.

Patterson who will represent himself in the appeal, stated in his application that "owing to very extenuating circumstances of which the presiding judge had no knowledge, I feel I received an unduly severe sentence."

He was not represented by counsel in the lower court.

Light Not Burning

Ships have been advised by W. L. Stamford, agent for the Department of Transport, that the white flashing light on Burial Island, Sansum Narrows, is not burning. Repairs are being made to the light.

Dismiss Application For Injunction

Application to continue an injunction dissolved with costs by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in Supreme Court chambers Friday, following the hearing of P. S. Sangha of the Sangha Lumber Company, at Langford, for an interlocutory injunction against Russell Eveleigh, to prevent the latter from shipping out logs, which the plaintiff claimed were his.

W. H. R. Moore was counsel for the plaintiff and E. S. Fair for the defendant. The original injunction was granted July 11 and Sangha sought its continuance.

Start Leveling On B.C.E.R. Property

Work of installing drainage mains and leveling off the property with a bulldozer has started on the block of property between Gorge Road and Douglas Street on Garbally Road, recently purchased by the B.C. Electric Railway Company.

The company has not yet announced as yet its plans for the use of the property nor the value of the building to be erected there. It has been rumored, however, that construction of a $350,000 bus depot and garage will be started there shortly to accommodate and maintain the new buses which are being purchased to replace the streetcars.

Present streetcar barns, in which some of the buses are garaged, and some maintenance work is done are inadequate for an all-bus system of transportation.

City police were called to the new Black Ball wharf at 6 p.m., Friday night, to take three tourists from Alberta to hospital. The three, two women and a man, had become violently seasick while coming to this city from Port Angeles.

At the band concert at Beacon Hill Park tomorrow at 3 by the band of the Musicians' Union, Mrs. Elsie Stephenson and Tudor Jones, clarinetist, will be featured soloists. The overture, "The New Moon," and selections from "H.M.S. Pinafore" will be included in the program.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

IN THE COURSE of a quest for some old oak—as well as for something suitable for this column—I went to an auction sale the other day.

Not that I am given to attending such sales, although, judging by the conversation of some of my friends, it counts with many people as one of the leading indoor pastimes.

When all other sources of entertainment fail, they apparently call each other up and say, "Let's go down to the so-and-so sale. We might pick up a bargain."

Evidently there is a strange lure about auctions, and some people seem unable to resist it.

CHRONIC HABITUÉS

ALTHOUGH I have only been at about four in as many years, I have noticed that the same faces turn up each time.

It may be, of course, that they, too, have only been at those particular ones. Perhaps they are thinking: "My goodness! There's that Hodges woman again. I wonder what she's after?"

On the other hand, many of the familiar faces belong to chronic habitués who can no more resist an auction than a cat can resist catnip.

Often you can tell the "chronic" from the casual patron by watching the play of expression on their faces—or the lack of it.

POKER-FACED PATRONS

THE CHRONICS invariably are poker-faced, while the casuals usually reveal a slightly avid expression to begin with, which then runs the gamut of expectancy, disappointment, chagrin—sometimes triumph.

But when it comes to the p.f. variety, you may find a sample in the grim-visaged female or a dour-looking man sitting, or standing, for hours waiting for some particular thing.

When the auctioneer finally gets around to it, the G.V.F. or the D.L.M. will enter on one of those silent but battering battles of bids, until one or other gets the knock-down.

LIP-READING?

SPEAKING of silent battles, the first time I went to an auction the absence of any spoken words by the bidders mystified me.

As the auctioneer monotonously chanted the bids I wondered on what he based them, or if he were an expert at lip-reading.

Until I tumbled to the cryptic sign-language which is evidently the authorized method of communication. Just the slightest nod of the head ups the bidding.

I felt it would be almost as heinous an offence to make my modest bid out loud as it would be to "heckle" in church.

Incidentally, I wondered what would happen if some poor soul with a tendency to palsy should wander in to an auction!

THE OTHER KIND

THE OTHER KIND of patron intrigues me, too—the kind who wanders in just out of curiosity, then find a bargaining instinct emerging triumphant.

Who hasn't seen the sample who finds herself—or himself—the owner of a moth-eaten moosehead or cracked jardiniere for which they haven't the slightest use—and for which they have paid twice as much as the thing cost in the first place?

Their faces are a study. First alight with enthusiasm at the sheer thought of beating out someone else, then slightly crestfallen as the rival drops out, leaving them holding the bag!

And don't think it's only the women who go foolish at auctions. I've seen otherwise shrewd and sane men act just as foolishly. Especially when it's a collection of fishing rods or some other sporting tackle, or may be totem-poles or assegais!

Personalities in The News

Bill Woop, "Big Bill" as he is known to the fans, is pictured above at the left, with Mrs. Woop. On the right are Johnny Cavalli, fast-moving shortstop of the Victoria Athletics, and Mrs. Cavalli. The Woops' home town is Astoria, Long Island. Mr. and Mrs. Cavalli are from San Francisco.

Autographing a baseball for two young bobby soxers, Elizabeth Johnston, left, and Beverly Yates, is Bill White, lanky six-foot-five right fielder of the Victoria team and idol of the 'teen-agers'. He is a graduate of the University of Southern California and his winter occupation is teaching physical education.

It's Baseball Time In Victoria

... when thousands of citizens, young and old, can always be found on an evening at Athletic Park, where the Victoria Athletics play all their home games. ... Always among most ardent supporters of the team are wives and children of the players, who occupy the same boxes in the grandstand throughout the season and rarely miss a game.

They come with their husbands from towns and cities in many parts of the United States to spend their summers here ... and during their stay, make many friends.

Younger ball players have enthusiastic supporters too, in the teen-age boys and girls who never miss an opportunity to ask for an autographed program or even a baseball.

Mrs. Jack Harshman, left, watches her husband, Athletics' first baseman and leading home run hitter in the league, take a few practice swings before the game. Mrs. Jim Arnold chats with her husband who is a pitcher with the team. The Arnolds, from San Francisco, have only been married a short time. Mr. and Mrs. Harshman are from San Diego.

Mrs. Ted Norbert, left, wife of the playing manager of the Athletics, with Mrs. Reg Patterson, wife of the team's business manager, and young Carol Anne Norbert, pose with Babe Jensen, third baseman. When they are at home, the Norbert family lives in New York City. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson live in Victoria and Babe Jensen hails from San Francisco.

Fuzzy Merinos Give Australia Huge Industry

By WILLIAM STEWART

CANBERRA, Australia (CP)—The Merino sheep, backbone of the Australian flock of 100,000,000 which last year produced 1,000,000,000 pounds of wool worth $300,000,000 is sometimes called the "ancestor of Australian prosperity."

Though such breeds as Corriedales and Polwarths are also well-established, Merinos whose export for breeding purposes is prohibited make up about 85 per cent of the vast flock grazed over an area of 500,000 square miles, or about one-sixth of the continent.

Around the fuzzy Merino, under such old stud names as Haddon Rig, Booneke and Wanganedda, has grown up Australia's greatest industry—the production of about 25 per cent of the world's wool.

FOREIGN CREDITS

Sales of this fine wool give the country annual foreign credits of about $200,000,000 and permit the purchase of machine tools, automobiles and other items which have raised the Australian living standard and provided the means to start a growing organization of secondary industries.

The Merino got its name from a Spanish seaman, Capt. Merinas, who in 1789 transported some of the sheep to Dutch settlers on the Cape of Good Hope. Twenty-nine of these sheep from the Cape were brought soon after to New South Wales, an infant colony at the time.

A few of them were obtained by Capt. John Macarthur who had just arrived in New South Wales from England. The hot-headed captain, once sent home for court-martial and later banished from the colony for eight years for his role in the rebellion against Governor William Bligh of "Bounty" fame, is regarded now as the founder of Australian sheep-raising.

SUCCESSFUL MISSION

With samples of Merino wool, Macarthur traveled to England where he aroused interest in Australia's wool-producing potentialities and came back with fresh Merinos from a flock kept by George III.

Macarthur's mission was so successful that by 1835 Australia was shipping 4,000,000 pounds of its annual wool clip to England, and seven years later three times that much. From this start grew the Australian industry in which $2,500,000,000 is estimated to be invested.

A prize Merino ram is worth $3,000 now. Three years ago one stud ram sold for $4,500, and shepherds still talk of the all-time record price of $16,000 for a ram.

BAN ON EXPORT

Until 1929 Merinos had been sold abroad for breeding purposes but the shipment of a single lot of 5,000 sheep caused alarm and the Labor government of James Scullin imposed an export ban for the protection of the Australian industry.

Proposals for removal of the ban have been discussed by graziers ever since but as late as last January a federal government saw no reason to alter its policy.

The Sydney Daily Mirror commented: "There is a world shortage of wool. This affords great opportunity for the expansion of the industry within Australia. There is ample room for expansion. Our energies should be bent in that direction rather than to giving encouragement to other countries to become our competitors in the production and marketing of wool."

BRITISH MODEL of the famed Spitfire fighter is a full-size textbook for army cadets taking basic military training at Harp Okulu. Trio with instructor will go into air force.

Pictures and Text
By LEO STOECKER

ISTANBUL, Turkey—As a plane would fly, only about 800 miles of Turkish mountains and plains separate the Russian frontier from the Bosphorus.

But in the eastern border provinces, ox-drawn wagon trains are in the supply line for the defensive outposts in the rugged hills. Between them and the warehouses that line the Golden Horn at Istanbul is a painfully slow network of small boats, donkey carts, and varied-gauge railroads.

At this end of what remains of one of the greatest empires in history, deep-water freighters loaded with western machinery, equipment and supplies drop anchor in the middle of the Bosphorus. There are no docks where they can tie up and unload.

These precious cargoes are shifted to small lighters, which are rowed by hand across the swift currents of the Hellespont to the docks. Then they must be loaded onto donkey carts and hauled to the standard-gauge freight cars some distance away.

At Erzurum these cars must be unloaded again, and their freight lugged by hand across the steeply sloping hills to the standard-gauge equipment. At Kars, the supplies are transferred once more to ox-carts for distribution among the patrol centres of the area that Russia demands be given to her.

Why does Turkey want a $100,000,000 loan from the United States, plus as much more as she can get?

This transportation situation is a principal reason. Commanding-officers at the "front" say they can never fight a successful defence unless railroad and highway facilities are provided to move troops and equipment and supplies.

The General Staff, back here, argues that the absence of transportation would be as bad for an invading Russian army as it is for the Turks. What the country needs first, they think, is more and better armament and munitions.

At Harp Okulu, the national military academy, I saw 1,200 cadets taking two-year basic military training. Each year, from 680 to 750 are sent to advanced schools for specialized instruction.

They study the British Spitfire, the use of U.S. anti-gas clothing, how to fire a Turkish 81-mm. mortar modeled after the French, use of the German Maxim heavy machine gun, the U.S. 37-mm. anti-tank gun, an Australian-type mine detector, an English flat rocket-firing anti-tank weapon resembling the American bazooka.

When they are graduated and sent to command troops in the danger zone, if they are lucky they will have British and U.S. trucks, British and U.S. 37-mm. anti-aircraft guns, Czech light machine guns and 150-mm. field pieces, U.S. range-finders.

In spite of transport difficulties, arsenals as far forward as Erzurum must stock parts for U.S., British, German, Italian, Russia, Polish and Czech weapons. Because some of these no longer are made, they must manufacture their own replacements at times.

Most of the ammunition I saw being made at Erzurum was with reconditioned shell casings because there were no new ones. I watched anti-aircraft gunners practice loading dummy shells because they have no live ammunition with which to shoot.

The U.S. loan is for docks, railroads, highways, modern weapons, ammunition. The Turks make it clear that $100,000,000 will not begin to do what is needed. They think of this sum as a token of U.S. interest and U.S. desire to help Turkey stay free and keep control over the Dardanelles.

Robert Connell's Nature Talks

Strong Vegetable Borer And Flowering Parasites

The other afternoon a lady brought me from her garden an interesting example of the power and persistence of the couch-grass, that bane of gardeners and farmers, in the new world as well as the old. Its original popular name is quick-grass, modified to quitch-grass, then to couch-grass, and finally to couch-grass.

It is a fine-looking plant with its graceful light green leaves roughened on the edges with minute teeth and with a head that looks at first glance not unlike that of rye. The flower-clusters being placed alternately close to the stem.

The underground part is at once the most interesting and the most obnoxious part of the plant, for it sends out horizontal stems slyly. Each one is marked by numerous closely folded scales and is tipped with a sharp point that enables it to penetrate the hardest clay soil. Now my visitor had found a piece of couch-grass subterranean stem that had actually penetrated and passed cleanly through a piece of cedar wood. At one side you could see the larger hole into which the sharp growing point fitted itself while on the other it had emerged by a smaller opening and about half an inch of this narrower portion still remained.

POWER OF GROWTH

Of course such feats are not uncommon in the plant world: toadstools for example lift quite extraordinary weights with their apparently weak and brittle bodies. The power of a growing plant to penetrate or expand is one of the wonders of nature.

Sometimes it is one's good fortune to come upon a clump of the very interesting plant known as Indian-pipe or less commonly as corpse-plant, and a specimen of it was brought me a few days ago by another lady. The first finding of it is perhaps the most thrilling one. There is something so weird and mysterious about a flowering plant that has stem, leaf and flower all of a waxy white. While the leaves are not truly such, being merely bracts such as are commonly found below flowers and flower-clusters, each stem bears a real flower whose color is the same ghostly white.

As the plant ages the white becomes touched with a blackish hue which gradually extends over all. In spite of this lack of MILITARY CONVOY for the 60-mile trip from Kars to Ardhan is a 100-wagon ox train hauling military supplies for frontier outposts. Here the oxen graze during a halt on the four-day trip.

SUPPLY LINE BEGINS in the harbor at Istanbul, where a Turkish freighter (bought from the U.S.) lies at anchor. Cargo is unloaded in small boats because port facilities are lacking.

Symbolic, perhaps, of the new interest in the U.S. are the new Turkish officers' uniforms, which have deserted the old high-collared stiffness and adopted Anglo-U.S. comfortable slackness.

A U.S. mission of three members is here now, studying Turkey's needs for assistance if she is to discourage Russia from getting tough about the eastern provinces and the Dardanelles. It has seen what I have seen—a nation that does not want to fight, that recognizes fully the terrible might of her northern neighbor, but that is almost wrecking her economy in a desperate effort to be strong if war is forced on her.

Radio Personalities

Singing star Tony Martin sees a trend away from the "beat" and toward the "sweet," in popular music. He points out that the new turn in public fancy is shown not only in its choice of favorite songs, but also in the make-up of orchestras, which are emphasizing a balanced blend of brass, woodwinds and strings, with rhythm relegated to the background.

Robert Trout's radio reporting has taken him on some 25,000 miles through the United States and 20 foreign countries. To get the facts he has traveled by elephant, jeep, rowboat, bomber, battle ship and ricksha, and for his daily Robert Trout With The News, a large research and editing staff helps him verify, document, sift and co-ordinate more than 200,000 words of news received from around the world. In addition, he has a team of 22 correspondents in Washington, D.C. and other news centres.

Recognized as one of the greatest ad-libbers in radio, Trout has covered such great events as Battle of Britain, D-Day, V-E Day and V-J Day. On D-Day he was on the air 35 times in 24 hours for an aggregate broadcast time of two hours and 58 minutes.

Trout's mustache was developed as a result of his Washington radio work; when at the age of 20 he was told by stations executives, "you can't tell statesmen what to do when you look so young."

The Stroud Twins, comedians on the Vaughn Monroe Show Saturday evenings, have tasted success in virtually every branch of show business, from the circus Big Top and vaudeville, to Broadway musical comedy and radio.

The lackadaisical Claude and the verbose Clarence, who were born in Texas, at the age of 12, decided, after watching an acrobatic act, that that was what they wanted to do. After telling their father he promptly constructed some training gear in the back yard. In two years they were good enough to join the old John Robinson circus as trapeze artists and wire walkers. Later they went into vaudeville as acrobatic dancers, gradually dropping the acrobatics.

One night at the Palace in New York, taking a curtain call, Clarence ad-libbed to Claude "Isn't it wonderful—being here on the Palace stage!" The lackadaisical Claude nodded wearily, "Oh, I guess it's a good day to kill an evening." That line drew such a laugh from the audience the next day they completely changed the act. Opening with light comedy, closing with their dance routine.

From the musical comedy "A Night in Venice" with late Ted Healy, followed by George White's "Scandals" the Strouds replaced Jack Benny in Earl Carroll's "Vanities."

Following their discharges from the army, they made a few radio guest appearances and then joined the Vaughn Monroe Show as the program's comedy feature.

Hoagy Carmichael listeners may be surprised to learn that while he is accompanying himself on his little upright, he is playing with only his right hand—the other is cupped about his left ear in such a manner as to catch his voice and let him hear it above the piano notes of the upright and Buddy Cole's playing on the grand piano.

Check Onions, Cauliflower, Cabbages, Plant Endives, Parsley For Winter Use

ONIONS—Check to be sure the bulbs are now ON TOP of the soil, so that they may expand without check. If any soil is not pulled from the sides of the bulbs they are unlikely to keep well in storage.

ENDIVE—This is one of the most hardy and least likely to bolt of all the "greens" family. Start some seed now for transplanting next month, to provide fine, tasty greens all fall and winter.

CAULIFLOWER—Cut the "curds" (heads) while they are medium-size. Do not let them get too large or they may be a little strong in flavor. When cutting, remove the centre white head carefully with a knife and allow the leaves to remain on the plant for a few days. Then cut the inside leaves and cook like cabbage or chard. You will agree that they have the sweet flavor of all the cabbage family greens and are most tender.

SULPHUR DUSTS ON VINES

After a series of tests made under various agriculture departments it has now been definitely established that the vegetable vines—cucumbers, squash and melons—definitely suffer when sulphur or D.D.T. are used on or near them. In fact, one authority claims that they are allergic to sulphur and that any dust or spray material containing sulphur may not be used on them during the heat of the summer.

SWISS CHARD is one of the finest "greens" for the table and is especially suitable for producing a crop for use in summer and fall.

The outer leaves should be removed as soon as they get large. If some are too coarse for table use they should still be removed. They are of great value to the chickens and is the best use for these outer leaves until the kale is ready.

PARSLEY seed can be planted now in moist soil which will come up this fall, stand through the winter, ready for use very early. Parsley is quite hardy here. Never transplant parsley. It should be seeded where it is intended to grow. Its long tap roots make this imperative. Although parsley will grow in almost any place, it is a crop which amply repays good treatment. Leaf parsley grows with a long white tap root which penetrates 18 to 30 inches and needs a deeply dug, rich soil in which to grow. The root parsley also needs this same condition.

BABY CABBAGES—Just to be sure of an ample supply of cabbages, which, if not used at home, are an ideal gift to someone who may not have a garden, this little stunt may be applied when cutting the cabbage heads.

Instead of cutting the head off, leaving a bare stalk, cut the cabbage a few leaves in from the outside. This can easily be done with a sharp knife. About six outside leaves should be allowed to remain on the stalk. Cut these back to within two inches of the stalk and take care not to "pull" the roots.

At the place where the cut leaf stems join the stalk, new little cabbages will form. They are allowed to grow until they are about the size of a large orange. They are then cut, cooked whole and served as individual baby cabbages. The flavor is grand and they are a new dish for many, cooked or used in a green salad.

The principal thing in cutting cabbage is to avoid rough handling of the heads. Bruises, even slight ones, can cause cabbages to deteriorate rapidly. Heads are cut from the stems above the loose wrapper leaves with a sharp knife, as soon as they are fairly firm and before they burst. Use broken ones for sauerkraut.

COOKED CORN SPROUTS

A new and very delicious vegetable for the table, which is not known or used by many, is the young corn stems.

When the rows or hills of corn are "thinned out" do not discard the little six-inch plants that are pulled up. When the "suckers" are removed from the growing plants, use these for the table, too.

Young corn stalks may be cooked much like asparagus. The sweet, tender young shoots are a welcome addition to the "greens" in July and August.

FRUIT TREES—All water sprouts and new "sucker" growth should be removed at once. Cut each shoot off cleanly with a sharp knife or shears; right back to where it joins the branch or trunk. Do not leave even a small knob or your pruning efforts in this direction will be wasted.

WHEN PICKING RASPBERRIES

It is wise practice to sort the berries when they are picked. Carry several small boxes in a basket or tray and grade the berries when they are picked. This saves double handling and the fruit won't mush. The very largest berries may be used as fresh fruit or they are fine for canning. Those that are to be put in the frozen locker should be picked right into the containers in which they will remain.

The smaller fruits are generally used for jams or jellies and are considered superior for this purpose on account of their rich flavor.

After all the good ripe berries have been picked, it is wise to spare a few minutes to go over the rows again and carefully remove all damaged or shrivelled fruits. Most of the pests which attack berries are found right inside the fruit at picking time, especially maggot thrip and mites. If all bad fruit is carefully removed at picking time, and destroyed, the pests which might be a worse nuisance next year are destroyed.

Briefs From Britain

By Canadian Press

MINEHEAD, Somerset—A 30-year-old parrot laid her second egg.

LONDON—Wood blocks taken from roads under repair are sold for firewood at 2d each.

INVERNESS, Scotland—Eighty-year-old Annie Cruickshank was convicted of dangerous driving.

LONDON—Newly-built blocks of flats here will be named after well-known military leaders.

IPSWICH, Eng.—To aid Britain's food drive, the local council sanctioned use of 13 football fields for cropping.

BOGNOR REGIS, Eng.—Eighty-year-old W. F. Pinchard cycled seven miles to see a cricket match.

LONDON—British naturalization certificates were granted to 1,533 aliens, including 589 Germans, during May.

LONDON—Three shillings (60 cents) was deducted from his weekly rent because Rhidian Gilmore complained of noisy neighbors.

Dog Notes

DOGS DO THINK

Do dogs have good memories? Here is an interesting tale which illustrates not only the memory of a dog but also definite canine reasoning.

Charles Wellington, a farmer living on the outskirts of Cleveland, raised a litter of collie puppies several years ago. He was exceedingly fond of animals and lavished great care and attention on the new puppies. Like many dog owners raising their first litter, he was reluctant to sell any of the pups. But as they grew older, he realized that he would have to part with some of them. Putting up a "Puppies For Sale" sign in his front yard, he soon sold all but two, which he had decided to keep. One of the puppies, King, was sold to a man living 20 miles away.

Two years later, a thin and hungry collie appeared at the Wellington farm. Because of a peculiar marking, Wellington recognized the dog as the one he had sold to the man who lived 20 miles away. After feeding the animal, he placed it in his car and drove over to the town to make inquiries as to the dog's owner.

Investigation disclosed that the man had died four weeks before and that the family had moved to another state, leaving the dog in care of a neighbor, who had paid little attention to him. Saddened by the loss of his master and his present state of neglect, the dog remembered the care and attention he had received from the man who had raised him as a puppy. And so he had simply set out to find his former home and owner. Today, King is living happily in the Wellington household.

WHEN YOU BATHE A DOG

Here are a few hints regarding the bathing of dogs:

Don't bathe a puppy that is not at least three months old. Don't bathe a dog which has just come into your possession until he has had time to make himself thoroughly familiar with you and his new home. Don't bathe a female dog during the two months before her puppies are born. Never bathe dogs which are getting well from illness or which have any skin disease, rheumatism or colds.

"Dry cleaning" is often as good as any bath. If correctly administered, such "dry cleaning" is harmless. Simply take some corn meal and rub it thoroughly into the dog's coat and then brush it out with a good stiff brush. Do this either out of doors or make the animal stand on newspaper inside. This "dry cleaning" will usually take away any odor from the dog's coat, and if done properly will clean him as thoroughly as a soap and water bath.

A SAFETY HINT

Last year I wrote about a dog whose master fastened a red light on a little saddle to his pet's back before letting him out at night. Not only did the light help him keep track of the animal, but it protected the dog from being run over by automobiles.

Here is another suggestion sent in by a reader to safeguard dogs that are as large at night. Her dog wears around his collar and above his neck a number of reflecting glass buttons. When the headlights of an automobile strike the dog, these glass buttons reflect a red light, warning the driver of the presence of the animal.

"Dry Clean Your Dog With Corn Meal."

DOGS AND RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is an affliction to which dogs as well as humans are subject. There are many efficacious treatments but I have found the following usually successful:

Rub the affected areas with a good liniment. Three times a day give the dog a pill made up of salicylate of quinine, which your druggist can compound for you. The amount of quinine in the pill depends on the size of the animal. Small dogs should have a half-grain pill and very large dogs two-grain pills. The average pill I would recommend should contain one grain of salicylate of quinine.

Diet is also important. Feed plenty of fish and tripe mixed with biscuits and milk. Cut down on the amount of red meat the animal has been receiving. Last and most important, place your pet in the care of a competent veterinarian.

SEEING EYE BUYS DOGS

Here's an item of interest to dog breeders. I understand that The Seeing Eye, the training school in Morristown, N.J. that teaches dogs to lead the blind, is from time to time in need of dogs. The school will pay a reasonable price for animals that meet their specifications.

Dogs should be between one and two years of age. More females than males are purchased. They must have a pedigree, although the animal's paper are never given out with the dog when a blind person receives it. Only dependable dogs of even temperament, not shy or nervous, are desired. The breeds most often purchased are German shepherds, dobermans and boxers.

THE QUESTION BOX

Question: How many times do you think a puppy should be wormed his first year?—G.L.F.

Answer: It is advisable to worm a puppy every four months until he is one year of age. He should be wormed twice during his second year and once a year thereafter.

Question: How much cod liver oil should I mix in my cocker spaniel's food and how often should I give him this tonic?

Answer: A tablespoonful mixed in his regular food three or four times a week in the winter should be sufficient. During the summer months once or twice a week will prove satisfactory and beneficial.

'Giants Of The Road': 30-Day Bike Race Is The Great Adventure For French Millions

By FRANK DONGHI

PARIS—The Giants of the Road are on the march.

That's the way Frenchmen talk about the toughest bicycle test in the world—the annual "Tour de France."

Most Frenchmen can't explain why the Tour de France bicycle race creates so much talk, enthusiasm and, often just plain wild-eyed hysteria. It has ever since the first Tour was run off in 1903.

Each departure and arrival on the 21-lap, 30-day race brings out thousands of enthusiasts and, along the road, hundreds of thousands wait patiently each day for hours in the sun to watch these human machines pedalling furiously at an average 30-mile-an-hour clip. It would be difficult to say how many in all watch the race but the French press estimates that half the 40,000,000 probably get at least a glimpse.

The Tour is the great adventure, the great dream, of millions of young French, Belgian, Italian, Swiss boys and the man who wins is celebrated for life.

One hundred racers start, and Popular favorite of the first postwar race is Rene Vietto who has been dogged by bad luck since 1934, when this dramatic photo was made by Robert Caudrilliers as Vietto wept by the side of the road. He had just given up his front wheel—and his chances of victory—to allow his team captain to continue in the race after a mishap.

usually about 40 manage to finish the gruelling 3,000-mile test.

This year there are six teams of Frenchmen and four foreign teams, Belgian, Italian, Dutch and a Swiss-Luxembourg combination. Before the war the Spaniards were invited, but not this year; Frenchmen take their politics almost as seriously as their beloved Tour de France.

On arrival back in Paris tomorrow, after circling France and passing through Brussels and Luxembourg as well, the man whose total elapsed time is best is declared the winner. This year he will collect about 1,000,000 francs in first prize, lap prizes and other special awards put up by various cities and by manufacturers.

Next to the winner, the man most acclaimed is the "King of the Mountains." He is the man whose time is best in the mountain laps. A good mountain man does 80 kilometers or 50 miles an hour coming down from the high passes. On a light-weight bicycle, paper thin tires and a couple of precipices, it takes guts plus.

Every French kid has his hero for whom he passionately pulls as the progress is announced every few minutes over the radio or by loudspeakers in front of all the leading newspapers. The men argue it out in the sidewalk cafes. This year most Frenchmen are pulling for Rene Vietto, a third generation Frenchman from Cannes.

As a youngster Vietto first tried the Tour in 1934, but sacrificed his winning position for his team captain. Since then he has been dogged by bad luck. In the last running of the Tour in 1939, Vietto came in second to the Belgian, Silver Maes. The Belgian team, called the Black Dragons because of their black jerseys, is always feared by everyone. The Italians have always been among the foremost, being particularly strong in the mountains.

An American, watching the racers arduously climbing a formidable Alpine pass, remarked: "This race is won by the hungriest man."

POWER

By M. R. FRISKEY

Steve pushed his heavy white coffee cup across the table toward his wife. Silently, she poured the steaming black liquid into it. Steve was a big man—always knew what he wanted, and had nerve enough to go out after it.

The glare of the single light bulb suspended above them was diffused by the haze of the room where hung the mingled odors of coffee, strong soap on linoleum, unpainted pine-boards. None of the one-room shacks along the river which housed the power-house employees had been painted.

Ann brushed her hair back off her forehead and rose to cross the room, moving as though fatigue had eaten into her body like a disease. She studied the flushed face of the child on the pillow.

"Steve, she's worse!"

"Ah, she'll be alright. But I'll send the Doc over on my way to the plant."

Something in his manner arrested his wife. She turned quickly. "You're not going—to do any damage tonight, Steve?"

"Why not?"

She knew by the set of his chin and the glint in his eyes, that she could as easily change the course of the swirling river outside, as stop him.

"But, Steve," she pleaded, holding onto the lapels of his rough wool jacket, "violence won't get you anywhere. You're strong and brave and big, but Steve, you gotta be smart to get anywhere. You gotta be smart!"

"Don't worry, kid, I'm smart. I'm just going to talk to those birds in a language they can understand."

"But, Steve! Twenty-three thousand volts!"

But despite her deeply appealing look, she seemed to sense that her entreaty was of no avail.

"Didn't I just tell you I was smart? Well, I ain't planning to toast myself to a cinder with the voltage in that place." He lowered his voice. "There's an easier way to blow up the works. Stop the flow of pulverized coal, see? Flame goes out. Start the flow again, and when the furnace is full—the coal ignites from the hot walls... that's all. No more furnace. Why, it's just the kind of thing that's apt to happen any day, in the best plants. That'll show 'em! Think they can get us guys to come down to live in this hole on the chance that we'll make enough money to live right some day. And what do they do? Cut our pay! Lay men off! Cut our pay some more, and leave us stuck in this hole, the dirty—I'll show 'em!"

Steve's face softened as he looked at his little girl. He lifted a wisp of curl on his clumsy finger. The heavy eyelids stirred a little.

"I went out this morning to tell you rabbits you was better," the big man said softly, "but they was so disappointed it wasn't you, that they wouldn't have a thing to do with me."

A breath of cold, fresh air blew into the little room as the door was opened, and he was gone.

Doc Jones and Ann sat watching the child in silence as the long hours dragged by. Her noisy breathing and the hollow ticking of the clock were the only sounds.

Suddenly electrified into activity, the doctor said: "Get me a blanket on that kitchen table! Cover it with a clean sheet. Put on a big apron and tie your hair back with a clean napkin."

"Doc," gasped Ann. "You don't mean?" Her knees dissolved into putty.

"Gotta open up her throat and put a tube in. Sometimes happens in diphtheria. Work fast there. Boil some water for me." He picked up a coarse brush and scrubbed his hands.

Swiftly and silently the doctor and Ann transformed the kitchen into an operating room.

"Don't worry, Ann," he assured her. "Heart is strong. Got to get her some air. Steady now, Ann. Stick it out. Lose one minute now and we would be too late!"

The doctor leaned over his little patient, his hand steady with the assurance that he could save the child with his skill.

Suddenly the light went out. There was the distant thud of an explosion at the power plant. Only darkness remained and the smell of strong soap on linoleum, unpainted pine boards.

Ann crushed the small form to her, vainly trying to do by sheer force of will and prayer what science had no chance to do. "Dear God," she prayed. "Dear God!" And the pain within her numbed her whole body as though her own heart had been cut out in that improvised operating room.

The noisy breathing of the child and the hollow clicking of the kitchen clock continued for a few minutes and then there was just the clock.

Hours later, Ann was conscious of cold air on her face as the

UNNECESSARY EXPOSURE

By J. T. BARBER

"O'Keefe, upstairs!"

Patrolman O'Keefe dropped his disassembled pistol on the assembly room table beside the rags and cleaning oil and hot-footed it up to the lieutenant's office. He knew what the lieutenant would say. The lieutenant would say: "O'Keefe, what are you moaning about? You're slowing up."

O'Keefe would reply: "Lieutenant, do you know Miss Polly Cudahay that lives at 400 North Woodbine?"

And the lieutenant would say: "No, O'Keefe. Tell me about her."

The Patrolman O'Keefe would go on to say how a woman could trouble a man by deliberately ignoring his brass buttons and his tall blue-coated figure of authority.

And when a woman like that had dove's eyes and hair like the pale amber fire in honey under sunlight and a nose that rivaled the poetry of her mouth—why it was nothing less than unnecessary risk and exposure. He would ask the lieutenant's advice.

"O'Keefe!" the lieutenant snapped when the patrolman had saluted, "get set for a quickie in your district tonight. You're going on duty now. Dust out to Woodbine and Hamilton. Hide in the grocery store there and do your duty."

O'Keefe's mouth closed over his private troubles with the abruptness of a sprung trap. It was probably the mob from Philly, who had been hitting a different grocery in town every Saturday night. They were raiders, "quickies" who swooped down and carried off the day's receipts.

"O'Keefe," the lieutenant was saying, "a good piece of work on this job will get you a promotion."

"Yes, sir," replied O'Keefe, even while his will power struggled to submerge the disconcerting influence of Polly Cudahay. It was the more difficult because unfortunately she lived just across the street from the store.

When he got to the corner he paused on the curb for one last look around before entering the store. It was not entirely necessary, but his bright blue eye had fallen upon the alluring face of Polly Cudahay and he thought it would be a swell idea to ignore her officially.

Accordingly he paused there by the waterplug and, glancing unconcernedly about, straightened his belt with just that unstudied touch that makes efficiency a pleasure.

He wanted her to get a good look this time at a fine looking policeman and evidently she did because she seemed to be looking him up and down without seeing him at all.

He was burrowed among boxes and bags in the grocery three tortuous hours when they came in. Three of them. O'Keefe studied the men from the black shadow of his vantage point. It wasn't much of a place to shoot from. His hands twitched under the strain, but there wasn't anything to do but wait.

The trio fiddled around until the last customers left the store and then at a signal they pulled their guns. It was all done in the flick of an eyelash. Now it was time for O'Keefe to act. But someone else was acting.

With the suddenness of a squall a riot squad had come pouring in through the front and side doors, shooting as they came. In ten seconds the place was a madhouse of staccato shots. Cans of vegetable began to leak over everything.

Patrolman O'Keefe was in the thick of it then. The stumbling figure of a riddled gunman crashed into him. He grappled with the bandit and took his gun. Then he did some effective shooting with it. It gave him a thrill to shoot the robbers with their own weapon.

Afterward when everyone was congratulating him he became more and more indignant. It was something that had come up to gnaw within him and to embitter his triumph. And when he could get away it took him no more than a split second to reach Polly Cudahay's door. He wanted to ask her if she thought he was so weak and wan he needed help on that little job. And what business was it of hers, anyway?

He didn't expect her to deny it, but she did. She denied with flashing eye she had anything to do with calling the riot squad. He could see then that if he ever kissed her it would have to be a delight separate and remote from any subject that happened to be up for discussion.

"And you didn't wonder what I was doing on the curb?" he growled.

"I did not," she said. "Police-men stand on curbs all the time, like the braggarts they are, all brass and buttons."

"It's the uniform, Colleen," he informed her with dignity. "It isn't the man. The badge on the tunic and the gun on the hip—they clothe a common man with the authority of the law."

"Oh, yes?" said Miss Cudahay with a belittling eye on his right hip. "Well, you've practically been a nudist for hours!"

With that Patrolman O'Keefe clapped a dismaying hand to his heavy service holster and found it as empty as his pride.

HEPZIBAH

By CHET GRANT

"The fact that Hepzibah is not an actual cousin," Mrs. Blake said to her son George, "has nothing to do with the matter."

You hop in that Iron Horse of yours and get down to the station to meet her. I don't want to hear another word about it. Now hurry!"

George Blake moped out to the garage. Imagine being harassed with a girl named Hepzibah! George squirmed in his seat. He could just picture her!

Hugo Green was mowing his lawn when George drew up before the house. Hugo was a good fellow, but he played the cornet.

However, any port in a storm. "Lo, Hugo, what's new?" he called affably.

"Nothin'." Hugo eyed George narrowly.

"Say," George said brightly, "how about comin' up t' the house t'night? Bring your horn."

Hugo grinned. "Not for me, George. I've heard about Cousin Hepzibah from Maine."

The Iron Horse slewed around the cinder parking space and came to a stop beside the station platform. George dismounted and was taken aback to discover Tootles and the rest of his crowd innocently sitting on the baggage truck by the ticket window.

"Hey," Tootles yelled, "you goin' to kiss Cousin Hepzibah, George?"

"You got hayseed on your collar!"

"Makin' her feel right to home!"

There was lots more, but the train thundered into the station. There were but a few passengers and only one of them was a girl. At the sight of her George's heart flip-flopped. She was a small person, exquisite from front door was flung open. Steve's voice filled the house.

"Hi, girl," he called into the darkness. "Done a swell job, all right. Don't tell me I ain't smart!"

head to toe. There was not so much as a snicker from the baggage truck audience.

"Are you Cousin Hepzibah?"

Wide grey eyes twinkled. Red lips parted in a wonderful friendly smile. "Yes, And you're Cousin George, aren't you?"

"U'm!" George answered, reaching for her bag. "I guess we'd better be moving."

Without so much as a turn of his head in their direction, he led Hepzibah away from Tootles and the rest. They stood quite still, shocked into inertia by the sudden revelation of Cousin Hepzibah in the flesh. Before their brains could function normally, George had started the Iron Horse away from the platform.

For the first time since Easter George changed his suit before supper. He looked forward to a long enjoyable evening. He and Hepzibah would pop corn, discuss a number of things and listen to the radio. They discussed a number of things first and right in the middle of it the doorbell rang.

George couldn't shut the door in Tootles' face because Tootles' foot was shoving the door for dear life. "You invited me, didn't you?" he demanded, shucking off his coat. Skinny Tate came next, Bud Thornton wasn't far behind, and within 10 minutes the living-room held every breathing male member of Elston's Young People's Society.

When George returned from work in Mack's Garage the next evening he discovered that Hepzibah was dated with Tootles. Hepzibah hinted, too, that she would be dated the following night. She was; and the next night, and the next. George's own particular girl was out of town, so he moped.

The feminine portion of Elston's Young People's Society did not view Hepzibah's popularity favorably, but there was nothing they could do. Only the approach of the annual picnic saved the
